Wash Brains
Or Else—!

An incident in the peaceful university city of Athens, Ga., has blown up into a quite sad national news story because, while relatively obscure, it is in the Peron-La Prensa newspaper pattern, or if one wishes to go back a few years, to the thought-control methods of the Hitler, Mussolini or Stalin regimes.

This time it is the student newspaper and youthful idealism, integrity and honesty which have come up against dictatorial politics and—as usual—idealism and youthful honesty have been kicked in the teeth.

The editors of the university newspaper commented in the most general terms on the Supreme Court case dealing with racial segregation and called for calmness and a rational attitude, rather than one of harsh and unreasoning criticism likely to bring on violence.

This led to Mr. Roy Harris, most influential of the University Board of Regents, and for 20 years a legislative figure and the nearest thing to a state political boss the state has had, moving into action. Regent Harris apparently thinks the white race is so lacking in racial pride and integrity it soon would be reduced to a mulatto status if segregation is lifted, and he moved in against the student editors in his own publication.

Writing in the cultured, courteous manner the most powerful regent of a great university system would be expected to use in addressing students of his alma mater, Mr. Harris wrote of the editors as a "little handful of sissy, misguided squirts."

"Every time I see one of these little sissy boys hanging around some college, the more I think every one of them ought to be made to play football," he wrote. "But the time has come to clean out all of these institutions of all Communist influences and the crazy idea of mixing and mingling of the races which was sponsored in this country by the Communist Party."

To be sure, none of the editors had suggested that there be any mixing and mingling, and their ancestry, while for generations springing entirely from the red clay of their native state, is no redder than Mr. Harris' politically. They are Americans and they don't like for either Regent Harris, Mao or Malenkov to tell them what they must think.

But what irritated Regent Harris was conformity. Or lack of it. It apparently annoyed him that any students of the state should not think as did he and so he ordered them into line, as follows: "The state of Georgia pays a big price to educate its college students. If the state is willing to spend this money it has the right to control what is taught and what is done at the university."

Warning

This was a plain warning to the faculty and students to hurry to the educational fount and wash their brains free of anything which doesn't conform to Regent Harris' policies or, as they say, else.

To be sure, there isn't enough communism at the university to put in an eyedropper. Indeed, there isn't any at all. It is a sad story, not so much because of the vulgar and unfair attack on decent young men, but because political leadership of a sort always assumes it can crush truth or ideals. When idealism encounters this sort of monstrous political brain-washing and thought control, it reacts as it should—it resists the political dictation which produces such attitudes and determines to do something about it. In all other countries under totalitarian thought and press control, the underground work of opposition is carried on by students. It was true in Hitler's Germany, Mussolini's Italy and it is true in Russia today. The young people are not going to have pressed down upon their brow the crown of thorns of prejudice, fanaticism or political oppression.

The editors resigned, of course. The faculty is humiliated and ashamed. And all concerned have learned a bitter lesson of what can happen when politics can dominate the teaching and the press of any school anywhere.

Juelich Says Bribe Got Guard's Aid

Ignores Counsel
In Taking Stand

By JOE RICKENBAKER

Constitution Staff Writer

ROME, Dec. 4—Herbert E. Juelich swore today that guard George Hightower, on promise of money, aided in the dramatic break in which U.S. Deputy Marshal Sam Vaughn was shot to death last summer.

Taking the stand in U.S. District Court against the advice of his counsel, Juelich testified that he did not kill Vaughn.

Following a session tonight, in which defense and prosecution reviewed evidence of the two and a half day's testimony, there were indications the case would go to the 12-man jury at noon tomorrow.

JUELICH CALM

Speaking calmly, in almost a shy manner, Juelich said Hightower agreed to help him and his lanky companion, Lewis Woodward Larson, escape at a roadside stop when Marshal Vaughn left the car. They were on their way to the Atlanta Penitentiary.

He said Larson asked the guard, who has been the government's principal witness in the Juelich-Larson trial, if he was "hard up for money," and Hightower replied that he was a "poor man." Juelich said he told the guard "he could make a lot of money if he had any sense" and Hightower later promised to help them escape.

CAR HITS DITCH

He said the break came when Hightower grabbed the steering wheel, forcing the car into a ditch and throwing the two handcuffed, leg-ironed and chained-together prisoners against the front seat.

Juelich testified he felt the car "run into something" and he and Larson were thrown into the front seat. "Shots rang out," he said, just as he and Larson began climbing back into the rear seat.

Juelich's testimony was the high point in a session in which his soberly clad mother tearfully told the jury he "stole" as a child. Looking at him only once as she spoke, Mrs. Herbert R. Juelich said her boy had never been violent but he had got into Communist Party.

Jury Releases Husband in Motel Death

Billy Eugene Longrier, 22, was released from Fulton Tower yesterday after a Fulton County grand jury declined to indict him on a murder charge in Monday's "triangle" slaying at a motel in Hapeville.

Longrier had been held without bond after police said he shot to death Marvin A. (Marie) Clark, a short-order cook, when he found Clark with his wife at the Oak Terrace Motor Lodge.

Police said Longrier went to the motel with his wife's mother and brother. Clark answered the door, clad in shorts, they said.

Longrier was quoted as saying a struggle ensued. A gun Longrier was carrying went off in the fracas and flew out of his hand, Longrier said. He retrieved the gun and shot Clark dead when Clark advanced on him, police said.

The grand jury considered it justifiable homicide.

Cafe Cashiers Indicted; $50,000 Loss Feared

Three former cashiers at the S&W Cafeteria, 189 Peachtree St., were indicted yesterday charged with larceny of $212 as members of a ring of "inside thieves" that authorities believe may have stolen $50,000 from the cafeteria.

Bench warrants were issued for arrest of all three and Sol. Gen. Paul Webb, whose investigators handled the case, said more indictments are expected against former employees of the cafeteria.

Bond was set at $5,000 for the three: Geraldine Ivey, Rt. 2, Roswell, who is charged with four counts of larceny.

Gladys I. Munda of Cumming, charged with four counts. Blondine P. Ross, 1071 Second Ave., Decatur, charged with three counts.

Mother Pulls Son, 4, From Septic Tank

Quick action by a Union City mother saved the life of her 4-year-old son yesterday when the youngster fell into an open septic tank in a neighbor's yard.

Mrs. Marcus Phelps pulled the unconscious boy, Marcus, from the tank and administered artificial respiration for several minutes, forcing large quantities of water from the child's lungs. She then called police who brought the child to Grady Hospital for further aid. Union City is about 15 miles from Atlanta.

The boy was found in the tank by his 6-year-old sister, Brenda Faye.

Cuba's Prio Held in Gun Export Try

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 4—Carlos Prio Socarras, deposed President of Cuba who lived here in exile, was arrested along with his former interior minister today on a charge of conspiring to export arms and implements of war from the United States without licenses.

Three other men also were taken into custody by U.S. authorities. They were charged with purchasing rifles to be exported to Cuba without licenses.

Arrested with Prio, 50, was Segundo Corti, 43, his interior minister until Fulgencio Batista overthrew his regime in a bloodless coup on March 10, 1952. Prio was taken into custody in Prio's home on South Miami avenue by U.S. Marshal Jack Peoples.

They were booked and fingerprinted at the Federal Building. Prio was released on $50,000 bond and Corti on $25,000 bond.

The other three, arrested separately, were booked as Jesse A. Vickers, 56, Miami Springs and a native of Georgia; Efrén Rodolfo Pichardo, 33, Miami, and Marcus Liaz Y Lanz, 26, a Cuban in this country on a visitor's permit.

They were charged with "arranging to purchase and purchasing 30 M1 carbine rifles to be exported to Cuba without licenses and without advising the secretary of state."

U.S. Commissioner Roger E. Davis set Vickers' bond at $15,000 and the others at $5,000 each. He set a preliminary hearing in all cases for Dec. 11.

Panel Clears Cravey in Bribe Plaint

By M. L. ST. JOHN

A Senate-House committee yesterday unanimously cleared State Insurance Commissioner Zack Cravey of charges of accepting "gifts, bribes or emoluments" from an insurance company.

Then the House State of Republic Committee, in effect, killed another resolution for a longer and more intensified investigation of Cravey and his staff.

Cravey commented that "the joint committee report speaks for itself," and declared the investigation was instigated by the Bankers Life and Casualty Co. of Chicago, with which he is engaged in a bitter legal battle.

SEES "WHITEWASH"

Rep. Owen Adams of Upson County, author of the action against Cravey, declared that if the extension resolution isn't passed the "whitewash" of Cravey "will have been compounded." He said the joint committee's hands were tied by a substitute resolution "dictated" by Cravey and limiting the time and scope of the investigation.

The committee report clearing Cravey was approved without dissent in the House. It goes to the Senate Monday.

The joint committee's findings were based chiefly on testimony offered by Fulton Sol. Gen. Paul Webb, who told the group he had presented certain documents involving Cravey to the grand jury, and that the jury took no action. He said he personally believed Cravey may have received favors, but that he found no evidence Cravey had been influenced by these favors.

PURCHASE OF CAR

The committee said all exhibits given it by William McRae, an attorney for an employee of Bankers Life and Casualty Co., had been made available to Webb and the jury. Even with this material, the jury was un-

Boy, 13, Held In Attack on Woman Here

Detectives last night captured a 13-year-old Negro boy who, they said, admitted raping a 20-year-old white woman—mother of two—just before noon. The boy was captured in a wooded area in Du Pont Hills near Chattahoochee Ave. NW.

The boy was positively identified, according to Dets. Jimmy Helms and E. F. McKillop, who made the arrest after searching in the northwest Atlanta area until nearly dark.

Dets. W. E. Petty and H. F. Brown said the boy went to a northwest Atlanta residence and asked the woman if he could speak to her husband about "some work."

Informed the husband was at work, he asked for a drink of water. When she brought it, he stepped through the screen door and threatened to kill her baby if she did not comply with his wishes, she told police.

She said she screamed and ran to the telephone, but he knocked her out with his fist, disrobed her and attacked her.

Twister Smashes Airport in Cobb, Rips Up 20 Planes

22 Hangars Are Wrecked In 30 Seconds

By DERICK DANIELS

A small, whistling tornado skipped across the Chattahoochee River bluffs at dusk yesterday and slammed into a private airport near Sandy Springs. It ripped up 22 hangars and hurled small planes into the woods a half-mile away.

There were no casualties.

Walter E. Nix, 38, operator of Parkaire Field, said about 20 out of 40 single-engine planes were destroyed or damaged.

The corrugated aluminum hangars, in three rows, were heavily damaged. They were worth about $40,000. On first glance, Nix said, they now are almost worthless.

RIPS OFF ROOF

The pot-bellied twister swirled out of the west at 5:35 p.m. It swooped down at the intersection of Johnson's Ferry Rd. and Lower Roswell Rd. in Cobb County, where it ripped the roof off Perkins Grocery Store.

Across Johnson's Ferry road at the airport, which is four miles northwest of Sandy Springs, the tornado sucked up parked planes and spun them into the air. Strangely, it left other planes unscathed or turned about on the runway.

An expensive plane kept for private use was tossed 75 yards and landed in high tension wires carrying 20,000 volts of current. They snapped and blazed. Sparks skittered into the sky like a Fourth of July fireworks display.

The tornado cut a 300-foot swath about a mile long across the airport and an open field before it bounced up and dissipated eastward.

Gasoline spewed from smashed airplane fuel tanks. The smell of it was everywhere. Dobbins Air Force Base at Marietta sent a crash crew to the

Rain Due Again After Mildness

Rainfall which hit a high for the year in Atlanta yesterday and the day before may return to the city tomorrow night, the weatherman said.

His official forecast calls for cloudy and mild today followed by "increasing cloudiness and possible rain" by tomorrow night. High readings of 65 degrees are expected both days after an indicated low of 48 this morning and 50 tomorrow morning. Extremes here yesterday were 50 and 65.

Some 3.63 inches of rain were recorded at the Weather Bureau from late Thursday through last night. It was the heaviest amount in a 24-hour period since last September. Additional weather information is on Page 16.

Big 3 Confer on Soviet; Okay Molotov Parley?

By STANLEY JOHNSON

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda, Dec. 4—President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel exchanged opinions on Soviet policy at the first session of their historic conference in this winter holiday island today. And their foreign ministers were reported to have agreed on holding a meeting—probably in January—with Russia's V. M. Molotov.

Spokesmen present at the first meeting of Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel in the swank, tightly-guarded conference room in the Mid-Ocean Club said there naturally were "certain divergencies" in their views of past, present and future Soviet policy.

This was no surprise, as the meeting had been arranged to harmonize the views of the international situation held by Britain, France and the United States.

Their first meeting, taking place just 3½ hours after President Eisenhower had landed in this flowery island, lasted 2 hours and 15 minutes.

Just an hour before they sat down, U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault gathered in the same club to begin far-ranging discussions.

The first fruits of their discussion, Allied diplomats said, was an agreement to postpone withdrawal of British and American troops from Zone A of Trieste territory in order to get Yugoslavia and Italy into a five-power conference. But this plan was said to provide that Britain and America will stand by their Oct. 8 decision to withdraw their troops before the Trieste conference ends. This is a new approach and presumably will be communicated to Rome and Belgrade to get their reaction.

The second result, British informants reported, was an agreement to join Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov Thursday.

Nixon Arrives In Afghanistan

KABUL, Afghanistan, Dec. 4. (INS)—Vice President Nixon arrived in Kabul today on his fact-finding tour of Asia. Nixon said his party will remain in Afghanistan until Sunday, when they fly to Pakistan.

M'Carthy Hits White House Tab on Wires

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—Senator McCarthy accused the White House tonight of making a "grievous mistake" in its tabulation of telegrams sent in response to his appeal for criticism of President Eisenhower's foreign policy.

The controversy between McCarthy and the White House was touched off after Asst. White House Press Secretary Murray Snyder's announcement at 4 p.m. that more than 1,500 telegrams and about 50 letters had been received up to that time.

McCarthy said his own "sources" in Western Union and the White House, whom he refused to identify, indicated that 2,087 messages were received at the White House from 11 a.m. until midnight Thursday.

At 7:30 p.m. Snyder announced the executive mansion had received 2,030 telegrams to that time and that Western Union offices here had a backlog of 1,800 not yet relayed to the executive mansion.

McCarthy Thursday appealed to "every American who feels as I do" to write Eisenhower demanding that he cut off U.S. aid to nations trading with Red China.

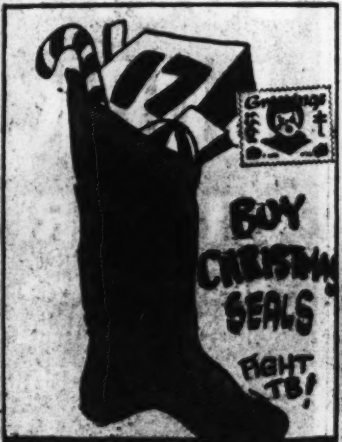

Night Hours, Free Ride Offered City Shoppers

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Christmas shopping in Atlanta, officially under way for a week now, will go on an all-out basis during the final three-week rush. Beginning Monday, more than 75 retail stores and chains in the city will give shoppers up to three extra hours each day in which to make their purchases. Every weekday evening until Christmas they will keep their doors open to one-and-all until 9 p.m.

What is expected to be the biggest buying spree in the city's history will be given impetus by the Atlanta Transit Co. On Monday night only, as the stores begin their new hours, the transit company will provide free trolley rides for shoppers to downtown Atlanta from 5:45 to 7:30 p.m.

The free service does not include feeder bus lines or Metropolitan Transit Co. (suburban) lines. Merchants say the night-time hours will make Christmas shopping easier for everyone. The convenience of the late hours will apply particularly to the thousands of workers with regular daytime jobs. Likewise, many housewives unable to put aside their daily tasks will welcome the evening shopping opportunity. The evening hours will prove a boon to those living and working outside the city. They'll now have plenty of time to drive into Atlanta, shop at a leisurely pace, and return home at a not-too-late hour.

Waste Cuts Save Millions, Kyes Says

Reports Military Capabilities Improved at Same Time

DETROIT, Dec. 4 (AP)—Roger M. Kyes, deputy secretary of defense, said tonight many millions of dollars are being saved in a program "to trim off fat wherever it hampers the strength of our military muscle."

Ex-Official Indicted for Red Denial

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—A former State Department official who worked for the government's hush-hush wartime spy agency was indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of falsely denying he ever was a Communist.

The ex-official, 46-year-old Val R. Lorwin, was accused of lying under oath during loyalty hearings in December, 1950. Lorwin swore he never was a Communist Party member, never carried a party card and never held a party meeting in his home.

15 YEARS POSSIBLE
If convicted, he faces a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

At the time of the loyalty hearing, Lorwin was chief of the European section of the State Department international labor, social and health affairs division. He transferred to the State Department from the Office of Strategic Services, a wartime spy agency under Army jurisdiction, with which he served in 1944-45.

The State Department said Lorwin was suspended on Feb. 5, 1951, and reinstated on March 28, 1952. He resigned on June 17, 1952. The department was studying its records to throw some light on why Lorwin was suspended and later resigned.

$8,000 A YEAR
Available records showed he was drawing about $8,000 a year when he resigned.

The three-count indictment charged that Lorwin was a member of the Communist Party in September, 1935, and "at other times" prior to the loyalty hearings. It also charged that in September, 1935, he held a Communist Party card and that a Communist meeting was held in his Washington home.

Rails, Unions Plan Session on Bargaining

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (AP)—The nation's railroads and their five operating unions have arranged to meet on a national scale to bargain on wage increases.

The unions represent between 250,000 and 300,000 employees who operate trains.

A spokesman for the railroads said today the carriers and four unions will open national negotiations Wednesday. These unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Order of Railway Conductors and the AFL Switchmen's Union of North America.

The firemen and trainmen will bargain jointly. The others will negotiate separately.

Negotiations with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers are expected to start Jan. 6, the railroad spokesman said.

Life Without Papers Is 'Murder', News-Hungry New Yorkers Cry

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—New Yorkers found out this week how life is without daily newspapers—and they didn't like it.

They turned to radio and TV, and the suburban newspapers not hit by the strike.

Impromptu news sheets have been mushrooming, put out by business firms for their employees and customers. A railroad is distributing 35,000 such sheets a day to its riders, with emphasis on stock prices, sports and world news.

The dearth of local news is especially noticeable.

TURN TO MAGAZINES

Corner news stands feature magazines buried a week ago behind mountains of the late newspaper editions. Books, too, enjoy new popularity among subway and railroad riders.

"It's murder," declared Emanuel Teitel, a Bronx clerk. "I don't know what's going on in the world."

Said subway rider May Blumberg, a secretary: "I miss the papers on the trains. I'm tired of looking at other people's faces."

Said Joseph Theis, a clerk: "I missed them at first, but now it's awful. It's not the same as looking through a paper while the wife is preparing supper."

MISSING OBITUARY
William Morris of the Bronx.

At the same time, he said combat capabilities of the armed forces are being improved.

Kyes noted, in an address prepared for delivery before the Ad-Craft Club here, that it has been just 10 months since Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and himself took over responsibility for managing the military establishment.

But in listing samples of savings that have been made and citing improvement in efficiency in the services, Kyes specified:

"I mean that the Defense Department management team of military and civilians is clearly aware that its real job is to provide our nation with a completely adequate defense system. Neither we nor you have the slightest intention of trading national safety for dollars, untaxed, unappropriated or unspent. . . . Tax dollars which pay for waste contribute exactly nothing to national defense."

Kyes had particular praise for the "outstanding accomplishment" of the Air Force in improving organization and efficiency. He noted the Air Force has reported it now expects to get 115 wings instead of 110 in 1954 and 120 instead of 115 in 1955. Then he listed some examples of how changes in organization have provided more funds for use in the combat build-up, including these:

A change in the spare engine system is saving about 100 million dollars.

The adoption of commercial maintenance practices will save another $23,400,000.

As an example of improved Army efficiency, Kyes said the manpower strength of an Army infantry division is being reduced by about 600—but by converting approximately 500 service (support) jobs within the division, its firepower is increased by 81 machine guns and 18 recoilless rifles.

Stall by ROK Prisoners Threatens To Scuttle Quiz

PANMUNJOM, Dec. 5 (AP)—South Korean prisoners launched a slow-down strike against fruitless Allied efforts to win them back from communism today in an apparent attempt to scuttle the explanation program.

Only five prisoners were interviewed in the first 90 minutes of today's explanations. Cocky and defiant, all five rejected repatriation and a severance had to be forced to leave the explanation tents.

South Korean officers were attempting to speed up the interviews so they could talk to all of the 40 men scheduled to face them today. However, the prisoners stalled by demanding "time to make a decision" or insisted on their right to ask questions for several hours.

Today's group of ROK prisoners appeared to be trying to force the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission into the same dilemma that prohibited explanations to anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese PWs.

Under the rules for explanations, the interviewers get only the chance to talk to all of the men each day. Those of the group called but not interviewed

Atrocities Documented At Start, Colonel Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur ordered the gathering of documentary evidence on war crimes and atrocities in Korea shortly after the Communist invasion began there in 1950, an Army colonel testified today, and as a result, he said:

"We have evidence, affidavits, eyewitness accounts and photographs of the bodies."

"No one can raise a question about the pattern and existence of the atrocities," Col. James M. Hanley added.

Hanley, chief of the Korean war crimes section from October, 1950 until May, 1952, was called before a Senate investigations subcommittee after Chairman Potter (R-Mich.) challenged Andrei Vishinsky to disprove atrocity stories related by Korean War veterans.

"LIBEL, FAKE"
Vishinsky, the chief Russian delegate, and his Communist associates in the United Nations cried "libel" and "fake" when the U.N. General Assembly voted 42-5 yesterday in favor of a resolution condemning atrocities and expressing "grave concern" at reports of Red brutality in Korea.

Altogether, the Senate probe has developed testimony that 10,000 Americans were reported victims of atrocities and that more than 6,000 of these cases have been documented by the war crimes commission.

Col. Hanley said such documentary evidence was not gathered during World Wars I and II and as a result it often was impossible to locate witnesses, check testimony and identify bodies.

MASS KILLINGS
Soon after Gen. MacArthur's forces recovered from their initial setback and began driving the Communists back in the fall of 1950, Hanley said, evidence of mass killings, torture and other brutalities was discovered, checked and photographed.

MacArthur, then Far Eastern commander, ordered the work continued. Hanley said North Korean soldiers captured early in the war were "extremely cooperative" in helping to produce evidence, some of them even volunteering information. Asked why they did this, Hanley said some prisoners were anti-Communist, some were bothered by their consciences, and others probably sought to "curry favors."

Baby's Body Found 3 Mi. From Home

MARIANNA, Ark., Dec. 4 (AP)—The body of 23-month-old Barbara Sue Jones, who apparently wandered away from her home the day before Thanksgiving, was found this morning by her father.

Jimmy Jones and two other men found the child's body in a heavily-wooded section about three miles from her rural home in Lee County.

A relative, Jack Stanley, said there were no bruises or other marks on the child's body. He said he thought Barbara Sue died of exposure.

Coroner J. C. Flowers Jr. and Sheriff S. C. Langston were on their way to the scene and could not be reached immediately for comment.

An organized posse of more than 400 officers, volunteers and National Guardsmen searched a square-mile area of the swamp that surrounded Barbara's home for six days before finally giving up the hunt.

Stanley said some men clearing land brought a diaper to Mr. and Mrs. Jones last night.

Jones identified the diaper as one similar to that worn by Barbara Sue, and the search was started again.

Jordan Will Welcome Ship Fired On by Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 4 (AP)—Fired on from Arab Egypt yesterday, the U.S. freighter Albion is to get a ceremonial welcome in Arab Jordan tomorrow when she lands 9,600 tons of gift wheat for Palestinian Arab refugees.

The 7,225-ton freighter, owned by the New York shipping firm of Drytrans, Inc., was headed peacefully up the Gulf of Aqaba toward Jordan's port of the same name today after emerging unscathed from the challenge of Egyptian shore artillerymen.

A government official in Cairo said a battery on the Sinai Peninsula fired a warning shot at the Albion on the ground the freighter failed to heed an order to stop for inspection.

The freighter, commanded by Capt. James H. Hassell of East Williston, N.Y., radioed that she pulled out of range and was making another attempt to reach Aqaba port. The U.S. State Department notified the owners there were no casualties and no damage to the ship.

However, the U.S. Embassy said it had made "urgent representations" to Egypt over the incident and President Gen. Mohammed Naguib's government promised "action would be taken to facilitate the ship's passage."

Egypt likes to keep an eye on traffic in the gulf—the narrow, 199-mile-long northeastern arm of the Red Sea—because it leads to the Israeli port of Elath as well as to Jordan's sea outlet, only a few miles east of Elath. The Arab states boycott Israel commercially.

The Albion passed through the Suez Canal Tuesday on her way from the Mediterranean around the Sinai Peninsula toward Jordan, one of Egypt's associates in the eight-nation Arab League.

Egyptian naval headquarters at Suez, at the southern end of the canal, refused to comment on the shooting. Most of the Gulf of Aqaba, from 12 to 17 miles wide, lies between the shores of Egypt, and Saudi Arabia, another Arab nation.

Jose Charges Teacher With Kidnap, Rape

ZACATECAS, Mexico, Dec. 4 (AP)—Jose Luis Gonzalez, 17, complained today that he was kidnaped by a pretty schoolteacher who forced him to spend a night in a hotel with her and then refused to marry him.

Gonzalez, a carpenter's apprentice from Aguacalientes, filed kidnap and rape charges against Maria Amalia Lira, 24, after she "assaulted me."

Gonzalez said the teacher "forced me into a hotel and now refuses to do the honorable thing about it."

The pretty brunette refused to comment, but named an attorney to defend her.

Gen. Vandenberg Put on 'Serious' List by Hospital

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg has been placed on the "seriously ill" list at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Hospital aides said the retired Air Force chief of staff took a slight turn for the worse two days ago and that his condition since then is not as good as could be expected. He entered the hospital Oct. 8.

Vandenberg retired from the Air Force last April 30 after serving as chief of staff for five years. In 1952 he underwent a serious abdominal operation for causes which have not been officially stated by either the Air Force or the general.

School Consolidation Fight Seen in Senate

By BILL ALLEN

Members of the State Senate last night predicted explosive debate Tuesday when its committee on education holds a public hearing on House Speaker Fred Hand's bill to allow consolidation of schools by grades as well as by systems.

Juelich Says Bribe Got Guard's Aid

trouble as a child because he stole. Later, she said, he sought help from a St. Paul, Minn., psychiatrist on his own.

The psychiatrist, Dr. R. B. Flon, was placed on the stand by the defense and described Juelich as a "psychopathic personality of a social type," but testified that he was able to distinguish right from wrong.

Juelich admitted he burglarized a jewelry store when he was 12 and stole several automobiles when he was 14.

"I was caught stealing one of them," he testified.

"Did you kill Marshall Vaughn?" Gleason asked.

"No, sir, I did not kill Mr. Vaughn," Juelich answered.

The government placed E. T. Kassinger, special agent of the FBI, on the stand in a move to refute Juelich's testimony about the shooting. Kassinger testified that when he brought Juelich out of the woods after the capture near Adairsville Juelich asked, "Is he dead?"

Kassinger said he replied, "Who?" and Juelich said, "The marshal. Is he dead?" Kassinger said he answered, "Yes," and Juelich replied, "I'm sorry."

Kassinger said that Juelich showed him where he kept a small piece of steel in the waistband of his trousers and how he used a piece of metal to open his handcuffs in making his escape.

On cross-examination the agent admitted that Juelich said he didn't actually remember killing Vaughn.

Juelich recalled a number of thefts leading up to his imprisonment in the Nashville jail and told of his confinement there, testifying that he was supplied with narcotics and a hypodermic needle by a Nashville attorney. The attorney, placed on the stand by the government, denied it. Sheriff Tom Cartwright was introduced by the prosecution to refute Juelich's testimony about conditions in the jail.

Juelich's companion, Larson, did not take the witness stand and his court-appointed attorney, James Maddox, told the court he would offer no witnesses. Juelich's court-appointed attorney, Frank Gleason, said in open court that Juelich testified against his counsel but added that he felt the desire of his client should be "honored."

Britain and Iran Due To Make Up

able to find enough evidence to make a tryable issue of fact, the committee added.

Adams said the committee based its finding on incorrect information. No jury ever had considered the evidence handed to the committee, the representative asserted.

The committee centered its study on Adams' charge that Cravey was influenced by a car which he said Cravey received through Reserve Life Insurance Co. of Texas.

The legislators said Cravey got this car through a "fleet" purchase order which Reserve Life had with General Motors, and that Cravey paid $1,690.75 for the car.

"There is no evidence that Mr. Cravey was influenced in any respect by the purchase of this automobile nor that Reserve Life paid anything toward the purchase of the car," the committee stated.

The committee said Cravey should continue to enforce the law and protect Georgians against companies whose financial condition or method of doing business is hazardous to policy holders.

Adams said the substitute resolution so limited the time and scope of the committee that it couldn't even make a feeble attempt at an investigation. He quoted members as stating they didn't have time even to read the documentary evidence.

The legislator presented a second resolution yesterday calling for a 90-day extension of the investigation. It would include a

The hearing is set for 3 p.m. in the Senate chamber. Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin has received "more than 400" telegrams and many telephone calls in opposition to the bill, which is designed to replace present laws under which the State Supreme Court has held that consolidation only by entire schools is lawful.

Griffin called the hearing on Hand's bill after he had received telegrams attacking it from Union Point, Americus, Glenwood, Montezuma, Carrollton, Mt. Zion, Richland, Laurens County and other Georgia communities.

MESSAGES VARY

The messages varied—some asking for an amendment to the bill to allow local school patrons a chance to vote on consolidation of high schools when only eight grades would be left in a community schoolhouse.

Others asked that the bill be killed because "it discriminates against the small local school, around which communities are formed."

Hand, who fought off an attempt to substitute the bill or amend it in the House, maintains that the school-building authority, of which he is chairman, will be "rendered almost helpless" if the bill does not become law.

FOR FDR MEMORIAL

The House yesterday voted an appropriation of $75,000 to the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial Commission for preliminary planning and land acquisition for The Hall of Our History. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The House also passed a bill defining authorized absences from school. Rep. John Bell of Richmond, who authored the bill, had found that even ill children's parents and teachers are presently committing misdemeanors when they keep children out of class.

A new auto license tag size to conform with uniform specifications adopted by automobile manufacturers was provided in a Senate bill sent to the governor for approval after House adoption.

The House State of Republic Committee approved three Senate bills that would prohibit policemen from belonging to a union, allow out-of-state physicians to get temporary licenses, and authorize cities to grant their right of eminent domain to franchised inter-urban transit systems.

The Senate, meanwhile, approved a bill to require all automobile owners to carry liability insurance beginning in July of next year. The bill would require $1,000 protection for property damage and $5,000 for injury or death of a person.

Final legislative approval of a Uniform Traffic Code will be delayed until next week. The House and Senate conference committee on differences in the two chambers' version has virtually agreed, but Sen. Grady Coker of Canton said there was a bare quorum in the Senate yesterday and he wanted the full Senate to pass on the conference report.

probe of Cravey's aides, against whom Adams made serious charges.

The State of Republic Committee sent this to subcommittee for study until Monday. However, a member admitted time wouldn't permit the resolution to come out of the subcommittee, through the full committee, and pass the House and Senate before adjournment Thursday.

Cravey told the committee yesterday he erroneously had inferred he accepted a suit from Bankers Life. He said the gift was anonymous and that he gave it to a Negro servant when he learned it came from an attorney for Bankers Life.

SOPHOMORES SAVE FACE IN ANNUAL PUSHBALL CLASSIC—Emory University sophomores defeated a determined group of freshmen yesterday afternoon at Emory's athletic field in the traditional inter-class competition. Participants in the struggle, which was witnessed by 75 Georgia high school leaders attending an Omicron Delta Kappa leadership workshop on the campus, wore "black face" identification markings. Suspended last year because of "unnecessary roughness," the classic was resumed on a "good conduct" basis. An evening "pushball" dance followed the game.

Big 3 Open Conference In Bermuda

ister Molotov in a Big Four conference.

The informants said the Western reply to the Soviet note of Nov. 26, proposing such a conference in Berlin, would be a short, direct acceptance of the idea of a party, but they did not disclose the proposed time or place. However, it is not likely to be before mid-January, after the French presidential elections.

There was no hint of the divergencies that showed up at the Eisenhower-Churchill-Laniel talks. The official communique on the first session said: "President Eisenhower, Sir Winston Churchill and M. Laniel held their first meeting this afternoon at the Mid-Ocean Club in Bermuda. They were accompanied by Mr. Dulles, Mr. Eden and M. Bidault who had themselves met earlier."

GENERAL REVIEW

"They embarked on a general review of the world situation which will be continued. The foreign ministers will meet tomorrow to consider the Soviet note. Meetings will be held each day throughout the week."

They already had settled amicably one difference—over protocol—and Churchill won by putting President Eisenhower in the middle one of the three white wicker chairs in which the trio sat for photographers. Eisenhower had insisted that Churchill, as host, sit in the middle chair.

The 79-year-old Churchill is the only survivor of the Roosevelt-Stalin-Churchill wartime meetings. The last such international meeting attended by an American president was eight years ago at Potsdam when President Truman was present.

Lord Cherwell, Churchill's specialist on atomic science, and Lewis W. Strauss, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, already had set conference activities whirling by driving off together to an undisclosed destination for a private huddle.

Cobb County Airport Battered by Tornado

Power line were blown down in the area. Within an hour, though, linemen had lights burning again. Nix said there would be no possible way to "even guess" at total damage until dawn.

Most of the roof on Nix's home, next to the field, was blown away.

Nix said several planes were picked up in the center of the tornado, spun into the sky. They crashed into the woods and a mucky field, the farthest one about a half-mile from its mooring. Others pancaked beside the airport entrance road.

ALL HANGARS HIT

The planes are owned by individuals and corporations.

Nix declined to give the value of the hangars, all of which were bent or ripped severely. Other experts estimated their worth at about $40,000.

Nix said the loss is partly covered by insurance.

Two Air National Guard planes and two Civil Air Patrol planes were parked at the airport when the tornado descended. Both escaped severe damage.

The damaged and destroyed planes were worth between $1,000 and $15,000 each.

Nix said he was standing in his front yard when he first heard the wind.

SCREAMING WHISTLE

"The roar was like nothing I ever heard. It lasted about a minute, then sharpened into a screaming whistle. It just swooped in and wrecked everything," he said. "It was gone in half a minute."

Nix said he instinctively started running for an expensive plane when the wind started.

He never reached it. The plane was flipped over and demolished.

2 Bound to Jury in Early Slaying As Safe Burglary Episodes Mount

Constitution State News Service

BLAKELY, Dec. 4—Two men tonight were bound over to the Early County grand jury on murder charges in connection with the pistol slaying of James G. Bush, who a witness said had claimed to know of a safe burglary at Fitzgerald.

The grand jury is scheduled to consider the charges against the pair, Henry Crawford of Blakely and Harold Griggs of Columbus, at a session beginning Jan. 18.

C. P. (Lum) Griggs, an uncle of Harold Griggs, testified Crawford had said he had gotten $82,000 out of a "job." C. P. Griggs also said Bush had said he knew of a safe burglary at Fitzgerald and that Bush claimed Crawford owed him $10,000.

C. P. Griggs also said Bush had offered Harold Griggs 25 percent to help him collect.

Deputy Sheriff Julian Freeman said he was watching from across the street from Crawford's house the night of Nov. 14 when Bush was shot six times in Crawford's living room.

Freeman, who said Crawford earlier had asked for protection after claiming he had received threatening telephone calls from Phenix City residents, said he saw a car drive up to Crawford's house and a man go to the door.

As soon as the man got inside, Freeman continued, he heard a shot and then several more shots.

Freeman said that when he reached the house Crawford met him and said, "I had to do it. He had me about the neck."

Harold Griggs, however, said he did the shooting from behind the door, Freeman added.

A medical examiner testified Bush's body was three or four feet inside the door and that a loaded but unfired pistol was grasped loosely in Bush's hand.

C. P. Griggs, Booker T. Jones of Columbus and Carl Dye of Augusta testified they were in the car with Bush when he drove up to Crawford's house and that they ran when the shots were fired. They denied knowing there was to be any shooting.

C. P. Griggs also testified that on Nov. 9 Bush came to Crawford's house and talked to him, Crawford, Arthur Weaver and Harold Griggs. "They think I'm double-crossing them," he quoted Bush as saying later.

Crawford is reported to be the uncle of the Arthur Weaver of Columbus whose wife earlier this week told police two men abducted her from her home and later released her on the outskirts of Phenix City. Her husband claimed an anonymous telephone caller had demanded fifteen thousand dollars.

Crawford, along with Vester Hurston and Booker T. Turner—both of whom are Columbus Negroes, have been charged with participating in the Fitzgerald burglary. Belmont and Mary Dennison of Fitzgerald are also charged with burglary in the safe robbery.

Proof of Atrocities Shocks the World

American delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. continues to perform well in the United Nations in carrying the offensive in debate against the Communists' Vishinsky and in calling the latter's hand skillfully and effectively.

Vishinsky's blast that Lodge's documented atrocity charges are "lies, fraud, slander and libel" was met with the invitation and challenge to make an on-the-scene investigation. Let it be noted that this is in glaring contrast to the Reds' attitudes about investigations of germ-war charges.

Lodge's charges have shocked the world. His laying of blame directly on the Russians cannot be evaded in the face of facts. No amount of Communist propaganda can erase the stark brutality and utter contempt for human decency demonstrated by their actions. Public opinion, where it can get the facts and express itself, will condemn them.

Vishinsky himself was properly labeled by the former public affairs minister of Latvia, Alfred Berzins, in Washington this week. He described him as the "greatest murderer in the world and the greatest of liars."

The facts bear him out. The 38,000 atrocities charged against the Reds in Korea are small in number compared to the millions that have been enslaved and slaughtered by the Communist terrorists. Vishinsky has been a principal architect of it all, including playing the role of prosecutor in the worst of the purges.

We applaud Mr. Lodge for his able presentation of the world's case against the Communists. Let all of their dastardly deeds be exposed and documented by proof that cannot be countered!

Climax to Mr. Lodge's charges came Thursday when a shocked U.N. Assembly approved a resolution condemning atrocities by any government and expressing "grave concern" at reports of Red atrocities in Korea. Only the five Communist bloc nations opposed it, with Vishinsky still crying "fake, libel, lies."

Vishinsky has been called the "worst criminal of all time." This might be expanded to include the whole vicious, anti-human Red conspiracy and all its leaders. The words "gangster" and "gangsterism" convey lily white impressions in comparison.

Habitual Criminals Should Be Isolated

The crime rate in Georgia is bound to drop if the General Assembly enacts into law Rep. Muggsy Smith's recommendation that the maximum sentence be made mandatory in the fourth conviction for a felony.

The Smith bill, passed by the House and pending in the Senate, requires that a jury impose the maximum term, and that the prisoner serve it without parole.

The proposed statute is a watering down of an even better bill which called for life imprisonment of the felonist on his fourth conviction.

Both proposals are predicated on the sound theory that the person found guilty four times of grave offense has sacrificed his right to further consideration from society. When crime becomes a habit, then the offender must be isolated.

Passage of the Muggsy Smith bill is highly desirable as a step toward strengthening the criminal code which is now tipped in favor of the seasoned criminal.

Let All Public Officials Be Careful of Gifts

State Insurance Commissioner Zack Cravey has been cleared by a legislative committee of allowing gifts from insurance companies to influence his decisions or attitude toward them.

In the clearing, there was brought to the fore once more the fact emphasized in the Democratic and Republican administrations by the "mink coat," "food freezer" and other "gift" exposures, that it is bad business for a public official to accept such favors. We trust Commissioner Cravey has learned just that lesson.

Mr. Cravey had a hard time of it. We are sure he will be able to handle his Christmas presents from friends, not clients, all the better for his experience. The suit of clothes, which came anonymously, he wore until he learned it was from an insurance company. Whereupon he took it off in great haste, and gave it to his servant, thereby jolting himself of it. The new car which he got at a reduced price was handled through an inurance company purchase pool. Mr. Cravey didn't ask any questions about it and didn't know, until much later, its origin.

All these explanations we could accept, but we trust Commissioner Cravey will pardon us if we reflect just the teeniest bit of doubt about one of his statements.

If we got it aright, he said that the wife of one of his insurance enemies, in order to frame a case, feigned an acute appendix attack, timing it for the arrival at Jesup of the bus on which she traveled. Then and there she persuaded a doctor she did have appendicitis and the doctor then and there operated and removed the appendix.

As near as we could understand it, this was to enable her to get a mark up from a $50 charge to a $200 one.

Mr. Cravey is just going to have to pardon us for our teeny bit of doubt. We are somehow dubious that any lady, however zealous for her company, is going to fake an appendix attack and go through with a dangerous operation, just for a good joke on the insurance company.

This is just a little more fantastic than the Republican charges and while we are all for a Democrat outdoing the Republicans in any field, we respectfully defer judgment on the appendix story.

At any rate, we are always happy to see innocence established. We urge that all public officials be careful about presents. This is getting to be a cynical world.

Atlanta Knows How To Add and Subtract

Atlanta and Birmingham, rivals in many respects, share a rare distinction. They are the only two large Southern cities that operate in the black.

According to figures of the U.S. Department of Commerce, the two cities took in more than they spent last year, while Dallas, Houston and New Orleans each went $5,000,000 into the hole. Other examples of deficit financing are San Antonio, Memphis and Fort Worth, each of which spent $4,000,000 more than they collected, and Louisville which had a whopping $7,000,000 deficit. Louisville also had the doubtful distinction of the highest per capita cost of government, $86.19, compared with $51.12 for Atlanta and $30.84 for Birmingham.

The figures should settle the long-standing argument between Birmingham and Atlanta as to which is the most desirable city. Atlanta spent $22,269,000 on city services during the last fiscal year, while Birmingham somehow managed to get along on only $10,055,000.

Economy in government? Balanced budget? Deficit financing? Perhaps the Republicans should draft a couple of Democratic mayors to show them how it's done.

Active Voters Thrives And Justifies Its Name

Since Active Voters was organized four years ago, we have watched with satisfaction the growth of this organization devoted, as the name indicates, to an active interest in public affairs.

Its membership consists of persons of intelligence, character and courage. They get their drive from the Edmund Burke quote: "The only thing necessary for evil to triumph is that good people do nothing."

They are resolved that good people shall do something to thwart those who would corrupt public office and make democracy a sham. The only group which does not wish Active Voters well is composed of those who thrive on a citizenry's ignorance and apathy concerning government.

Sweet Solace: Popular Songs Don't Last Long

Without attempting to indulge in any form of musical criticism, we can still remark that so-called popular songs these days have short, full lives. Whether you like 'em or not, the fact remains that they do not last long.

Just let a ditty strike the popular fancy and all and sundry, disk jockeys, radio, and television warblers, and what have you, work it over. Record sales also soar, and if it should happen that the piece is not being broadcast or telecast, it is probably emerging from the player.

The state of affairs should be some comfort to any and all who tend to take the shivers and shudders over contemporary songs. They can take solace in the fact that it won't be long until this one is gone and another takes its place. It may not be much consolation, but it is some.

GOP's 'Men With More Mouth Than Brains' May Help Public Elect Democratic Senate

Thomasville—When I was growing up under Republican administrations, there was an oft-repeated saying among Republicans that "we can depend on the Democrats to act the fool in time to save us," referring not to the Democratic Party as a whole but to a small group of wilful men, each of whom had more mouth than brains.

The tables are now turned. It is the Republican Party that is suffering from a similar group of wilful men in it, each of whom not only has more mouth than brains but also seems to think that he, rather than President Eisenhower, should act as the head and mouthpiece of his party.

That small Republican group consists of National Chairman Hall, Atty. Gen. Brownell, and Senators McCarthy, Jenner and Velde. Unless they are soon curbed by better Republicans, disgusted Americans may next year elect a Democratic Senate for the sole purpose of changing a few committee chairmanships.

Use Licensed Agencies In Adopting Children

Atlanta—Re the Nov. 30 story regarding the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. MacFarlane on charges of neglecting the 18-month-old boy they had just adopted: Investigation by this agency discloses this child was not placed by any licensed agency in the state. It seems reasonable to assume this was an "independent adoption," in which the child was placed directly with the couple by a person not licensed to do so.

Situations like this show the great need for placements to be made by licensed sources who make every effort to be sure the child is going into a home which has been carefully studied before a child is placed. We make this statement for the benefit of everyone interested in adoptions.

T. ERWIN SCHNEIDER, President, Board of Directors, Child Service Association.

McCarthy Fate Said Left to Wisconsin

Atlanta—The "Loyal American" from Decatur has never and can never vote for or against Senator McCarthy unless he, or she moves to Wisconsin. (There is no Decatur in Wisconsin. I found to my considerable surprise.) Nor must he or she "suffer" just one more year, but five more years as he was re-elected to the United States Senate a year ago for a six-year term.

Are Atlanta Policemen Lacking in Courtesy?

Prattville, Ala.—As far back as I can remember I have wanted to visit Atlanta and its great stores. Recently I had the opportunity and now I almost wish I had stayed in my small, friendly town and kept my illusions about your hospitality.

I knew when I visited that I would find traffic heavy, but I did expect to find policemen courteous. Instead, I found the clerks in the stores put them to shame by their kindness to strangers.

I returned to my classroom determined that my boys and girls would learn human kindness whether they learned anything else in my classes. I certainly don't want them to treat their fellowmen as the policemen treat visitors to Atlanta. ELIZABETH STEERE.

Takes Issue With Allen On Prodigal Son Story

Haralson—I believe before Dr. Allen gets through with the story of the Prodigal Son he will show us that the boy's earthly father was the greatest reprobate that ever lived. What I read into it is that Christ was showing that an earthly father had compassion on a wayward son. S. C. SWYGERT.

Please Go Easy On the Bass

The key word these days being humility, there's a lesson in the experience of the drummer who got too big for the band and pulled out to form one of his own. Only the tuba player would join him in the defection. The pair formed a two-man band.

They worked out some arrangements for drum and tuba and started rehearsing. All was harmony until the drummer decided to sit one out and listen. What he heard, he didn't like. "Too much tuba," he said. The horn blower didn't like that analysis so he decided to form his own. He sat out a number and came to the conclusion what was wrong with the band was too much drum.

So, according to the story, each musician gave the other legal notice and they disbanded. Maybe they should have had as vocalist the fellow said he dreamed he was singing in a choir made up of 5,000 sopranos, 5,000 altos and 5,000 tenors with him carrying the bass. Suddenly, during choir practice, the director dropped the baton, stopped the anthem, looked directly at him and said, "Not so loud on the bass."

THESE THINGS I See and Hear: Speaking of drummers, at 106 drummer boy Alfred Woodson of Duluth, Minn., is the sole survivor among the 2,675,000 soldiers enrolled in the Northern Army, 1861-1865. Classified in The Carroll County Georgian, "LOST—One neck fur piece." Well, it couldn't have belonged to that Republican elephant Adlai was talking about.

"Taxi" Smith, who is coming back Jan. 1 as mayor of Albany, is a native of Bartow County. The Meriwether health center is hurting for dental help. It can have only one dental clinic a month because there is only one dentist to look after the teeth of the county's 21,000 residents. They're hurtin' in those parts.

Atlanta Will Sniff The Ocean Breezes

Maybe it's too early to start worrying about it yet, but in a million years or so, give or take a few hundred thousand years, if things keep on the way they are going, the city of Savannah, Ga., will be, like the lost Atlantis, buried under the sea. So will Jacksonville and Charleston. So will the whole peninsula of Florida, which might not be such a bad idea. The encroaching seas, in fact, will wash all of south Georgia, probably up as far as the Fall Line, the boundaries of the ancient seas, which once covered the Atlantic seaboard. The citizens of Macon, and Augusta, and Columbus, will wake up at night to hear ocean steamships hooting in their deep-water harbors, and as far north as Atlanta, on brisk days, folks will be able to sniff the tangy fragrance of a strong salt breeze.

I have all this on the authority of Col. Bernt Balchen, the old Arctic explorer, and he has it on the authority of the polar bears, and the moose, and of his own observations of what's going on in the far and now slowly unfreezing North. The world is getting warmer. Col. Balchen says. The great glaciers of Greenland and Norway and of Northern Canada are swiftly melting. Even the pack ice around the pole is growing thinner. It's three feet less thick than it was 50 years ago.

This means that the seas are filling up and all over the world the shorelines are rising. When, a few hundred thousand years from now, all the Arctic ice is gone the United States will look far different than it does now. The great cities of the present shore will be gone, with nothing but their topmost spires sticking up as perches on which the sea gulls may rest. With the release of the billions of tons of water now held captive in the Arctic ice and in the south polar ice, high tide mark will have risen some 150 feet. Atlanta will have a population of several millions, made up of webfooted citizens from Florida, southern Alabama, and citizens who formerly dwelled south of Macon. The great cities of the continent then will be located on the high peaks of the Appalachians and the Rockies, and to go from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Denver will require an ocean journey. For, according to Colonel Balchen, all the Mississippi Valley will be one great inland sea, and only Memphis, located on its bluffs, will poke up above the lapping waters.

The melting of the glaciers is caused, naturally, by the fact that the world is growing warmer. What causes it to grow warmer, nobody seems to know. The fact that it is, though, is undeniable. Everybody knows that the winters aren't as cold as they used to be and that the rainfall is growing less. People have sensed this fact, but being creatures of habit, haven't done much about it yet. It will be a long time, of course, before we'll have to move our cities to the mountain tops, where, in air-conditioned houses and clothing both, we'll live in the midst of tropic flora in jungles filled with parakeets. But it's coming. And I thought you ought to know.

'Symphonizing' Aids Christians' Oneness

A number of years ago Helen Barrett Montgomery translated the familiar words of Christ found in Matthew 18:19 with these words: "If two of you symphonize your praying concerning anything for which you have asked, it shall be done for you." I like the choice of the word "symphonize" in regard to our praying. The suggestion is not only that we harmonize our thoughts and words in common petition, but that we also unite our hearts and spirits.

Sometimes Christians don't behave as brothers should. Christ prayed that His followers should be made one in spirit and in truth, in heart and hand, in work and purpose. When He was asked for instructions concerning the manner and method of prayer, He didn't offer 10 rules to follow or anything like that.

He did the one thing which was most helpful. He prayed. His words have become for Christian people "The Lord's Prayer" or, as we sometimes call it, "The Model Prayer."

There is much that can be said regarding the content of the prayer. He offered, but the important thing about the prayer was Christ's attitude and manner. This is shown especially in the opening words, "Our Father." This is shown throughout the prayer in the use of the plural pronoun.

The Lord's Prayer unites the lips and hearts of Christian people in a common petition to their common Father. When we join together after the fashion of our Master, we harmonize. This seems to me the one and only place where true religion can ever really begin.

Long ago I set for myself a little rule of thumb which I have persistently attempted to follow. It is this question: Do my words and actions tend to unite Christians into a stronger fellowship, or do they tend to separate Christians into small, rival camps?

Many dedicated Protestant leaders have been working for the organizational unity of all Christians. I commend them in their effort for I know the walls which separate Christians are often artificial. We have too many barriers; we need more channels through which good will may spread among all men of faith.

But sometimes I think the ecumenical movement tends to put the cart before the horse. First we must have fellow-feeling in our hearts. First we must feel the oneness of the Christian family. Then it will be simple enough to move into a common house.

If we love Jesus Christ and His kingdom we are not actually as divided as we sometimes seem. "We are not divided... All one body we... One in hope and doctrine... One in charity." This oneness of God's children will become an ever-increasing reality as we "symphonize" in prayer. St. Paul wrote, according to Moffatt's translation of 1 Corinthians 1:11, "Let me have your cooperation in prayer."

Communists' Jargon Is in Class Alone

Members of the Board of Regents were stopped in their tracks recently when the Marxian phrase "dialectic materialism" crept into their proceedings, and they had every right to be stopped—dead still. The Communists have a jargon their very own, and much of it is rather misleading.

Who, ask the Communists, is "exploited?" The American "proletariat" is exploited. And what is the proletariat? It is the "laboring class." And what is the "laboring class?" That's the class which is "oppressed" by the "bourgeoisie." And who comprises the "bourgeoisie?" They are the "capitalists," the owners of the "means of production," the landlords, the "materialistic" industrialists.

And how does the "bourgeoisie" exploit the "proletariat?" They make a profit through the accumulation of "surplus value." And what is "surplus value?" It is that portion of the selling value of goods above the actual cost of the labor involved.

Really weird. The "oppressed," American laborer—"working class," if you please—has been "exploited" into the highest standard of living in the history of the world. He is "oppressed" by the possession of automobiles, refrigerators, gas and electric ranges, vacuum cleaners, television sets, bathtubs, king-sized cigarettes and the 40-hour week.

Does the Soviet Union have a "working class?" Of course not. Oh, no; everyone is co-owner of the "means of production." The eight to twenty million persons in slave labor camps in Siberia are just there for their health.

And what about "dialectic materialism?" That means each economic thesis has an antithesis, and the conglomeration of the two, a synthesis, has a positive and a negative, and they comprise a synthesis, and away we go. After all this business, the pure nectar is supposed to be communism. No thanks; I'm used to wearing shoes myself.

Pensions and Passions

Dixie Walker strode out of a fancy place called the Crystal Lounge, heavy with chandeliers and dim atmosphere, into the lobby of the Biltmore Hotel, and there was a cloud on his face. You've seen the same sort of cloud when he advanced on home plate for a discussion with an umpire who had just called a third strike that looked low and outside on a hitter who left the bases loaded.

He had just come from a sitting with Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, he and Grandma Johnny Murphy. (They call him Grandma because of benign Irish features that would qualify him to play a supporting role in "Little Red Riding Hood.") They had just told the commissioner that they thought Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds were being impetuous boys, and that, worst of all, they were being impetuous about something that was bigger than both of them, namely, the baseball pension plan.

Dixie stopped in the lobby and explained briefly, the cloud removed from his face: "I just don't want to see anything happen to that pension plan. It means too much to a lot of fellows who can't do anything about it, a lot of them like you see standing around the lobby now."

Kiner and Reynolds, both rather wealthy boys, haven't too much to gain relatively by the pension plan. No one, though, accused them of playing their role of player representatives loosely because of personal nature. Fact is, they seemed to have overlapped it when they had walked out on the commissioner because Frick refused to contend with the presence of an attorney the players had retained.

Walker and Murphy were the representatives when the plan was originated. They were instrumental in bargaining for the plan and setting up the structure. "We had a lawyer," Dixie said, "but he never sat in on any of our official meetings. He was just a friend of baseball, a man on Wall St. in New York who took a personal interest in us and charged no fee."

—Greedier and Bolder by the Year

The commissioner, then, and baseball government do not object to lawyers. It all depends on how they're used. Everyone seems to have the suspicion that the present player representatives plan to send their J. Norman Lewis into battle swinging his Carrie Nation axe.

What they don't seem to realize is precisely what Walker put into fearful words: That club owners and baseball government are not obligated to the pension plan. They made a concession in its establishment and the clubs pay over 80 per cent of the fund. One American League club owner, for instance, says he paid $47,000 into the fund last year. The players' dues are a pittance, comparatively, ranging from 27 cents to $2.70 per day, all depending on length of service.

The owners simply have tired of the bickering and the constantly increasing demands of the players' representatives. They grow greedier by the year. They grow more aggressive by the year. They grow bolder by the year. The history of their activities reads alarmingly like a parallel to labor unions.

Before critics of that observation land on it with both spiked feet, consider first what the players get. There isn't a pension plan in existence that can come close to theirs. Where else can you work five years and pick up $50 per month for life at age 50, or 10 years and pick up $100 a month. And those years don't have to be with the same employer.

—Men Who Won't Get a Drag

After Walker had gone away, I looked around the lobby at some of those who won't get a drag on the pension fund. They'd played in the majors before it came into effect. They'd come to the Minor League Convention looking for a job, or maybe to convince themselves that they were better off working steady at the store, or selling shoes, or living by their hands.

There was a catcher. He'd been a wild character in his big league days. He'd gone straight in the gloaming of his career. He'd had some good managerial jobs, but he's a man of strong will. He was still living right, but nobody particularly cares to put up with that strong will.

There was an old pitcher who had been a scout for years. He'd just been fired.

"I just wouldn't say 'yes' when I meant 'no,'" he said, "and I had to be honest with myself."

He'll get along all right on his farm, but the pension plan would make things a lot easier.

There was an old infielder who'd been coming to the convention for years looking for a chance to stay in baseball. He's had a few odd scouting jobs, and now and then somebody would take a chance on him as a manager, but it didn't last long. Boozie threw him. And here he was back again, a bad risk who could use the pension plan when he's 50.

It's a dangerous thing to be tampering, sincere as Kiner and Reynolds may be. It's far bigger than Kiner and Reynolds, and it's only begun to grow. It can become such a vast thing that financing it will become a prohibitive thing.

Club owners have tried to be broad-minded about the plan, but they can be pushed too far. Of course, the players can refuse to show up on opening day, but that brings you around to the question of what flavor poison you prefer, vanilla, chocolate or arsenic?

Minors Confident on Radio-TV Proposals as Convention Ends

Officials Await Answer From Majors; Mann, Atlanta Praised by Delegates

By JESSE OUTLAR

Minor league officials signed a flurry of resolutions praising practically everything but the major leagues yesterday morning and officially proclaimed their annual convention ended.

Plaudits were passed out to Earl Mann, Atlanta, Cracker owner and host to the week-long session; the city of Atlanta; sporting goods representatives, the press and others.

The minors may have a good word for the majors next week, depending on the action taken on the radio and television resolution adopted here Thursday.

If the majors okay Sen. Edwin Johnson's proposal to ban television and radio broadcasts of major league games in minor league cities, the Atlanta convention will be considered a success.

Most of the departing delegates were confident that the majors will come to their rescue and black out TV, which was described as an "unharnessed giant" by National Association President George Trautman.

During their week's stay here, the baseball men drafted 96 players for $332,050, hired and fired managers and coaches by the dozens, took action on some 30 resolutions and crowned a queen.

Before the meeting started, major league writers predicted a record amount of trading, but only one deal of any consequence was negotiated.

When first announced, it looked unimportant, but St. Louis Cardinals officials later said that they paid Cincinnati $100,000 for shortstop Alex Grammas. Pitcher Jack Crimian was also tossed in.

Most startling news of the convention was the player walkout on Commissioner Ford Frick and subsequent disclosure that the pension fund may be dissolved.

Frick had invited player representatives to Atlanta for an informal discussion on the pension fund. But players refused to attend when Frick barred their attorney.

SHORT NOTES: Five cities have extended bids for the 1954 convention. They are Houston, Miami, Rochester, Seattle and Quebec. . . . Dick Bartell, veteran major leaguer, was signed as a coach by the Cincinnati Reds.

Grady Nips Decatur In Bitter AA Playoff

Lofton TD, McDevitt Boot Earn 7-6 Win
And North Georgia Crown Before 8,000

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Wilbur Lofton's strong legs ran 78 yards that Harry McDevitt's weak one might kick the extra point and give Grady High's Gray Knights a 7-6 victory and the North Georgia Class AA football championship before a crowd of 8,000 at Decatur last night.

Lofton's glittering, game-winning scamper came on the second scrimmage play of the third quarter of the playoff between the champions of two regions on a waterlogged field after the home-field Bulldogs had completely outplayed the Atlantians in the first two quarters.

Tackle McDevitt, who has played the Atlantians in the first season because of an ailing leg, place-kicked the ball through the uprights as Sidney Reese held.

The Yardstick
DECATUR (6) GRADY (7)
10 First Downs 134
152 Yards Rushing 134
28 Yards Passing 0
20 Yards Punting 25

It was this same McDevitt who had booted an extra point that beat North Fulton, 7-6, and won Grady the right to enter the playoffs in the first place.

Coach Frank Jones' Region 4-AA kings had limited Erskine Russell's Atlanta City League titlists to minus 18 yards rushing and passing in the first half and had marched 85 ground yards for a touchdown in the second quarter to take a 6-0 lead by intermission.

So completely did Decatur dominate play in the first half that not even the strongest Grady heart in the grandstand dared hope that the Gray Knights might be the first team to defeat the Bulldogs on their home field in six years and 31 appearances there. Yet do it they did. And perhaps it was irony that the last time Decatur lost at home the score was also 7-6, Griffin being the victor in 1948.

After Lofton, a 185-pound senior fullback, and McDevitt broke the game wide open and completely changed its complexion with those two plays, the inspired Gradyites rose to the occasion and almost as completely dominated play in the final half, though, in truth, they were not out of the woods until the final gun had sounded.

The Decatur heartbreak, which was just as acute as a year ago when Murphy High's Gene Purcell kicked the Bulldogs into 14-13 defeat in this same playoff at Grady Stadium, was somewhat assuaged by the butterfingerness of the home folks. Grady linemen Don Field, Walter Stovall and Harry Evans pounced upon one Decatur muck eff, and the sticky-fingered Knights didn't do any charity work at all.

Grady limited the Decaturites to 37 ground yards, 19 air yards in the final half. And, although they outgained the winners overall, 180 yards to 134, victory in the statistics' battle

Valdosta Scores, 27-0, Cuts College Park Skein

Roberts Leads Wildcats To S. Georgia 'A' Crown

By JIMMY MANN

Constitution Sports Writer

VALDOSTA, Dec. 4—Valdosta, a devastating Class A football team that is considering advancing to AA circles, proved that it wouldn't be a bad idea tonight by blasting College Park, 27-0, for the "South" Georgia single A title.

Wright Bazemore's Wildcats, who specialize in hard running and harder blocking and tackling, jumped on the Rams early in the first period and let up only in the fourth after the bag was tightly zipped.

Rabun Roberts, one of four speedsters in the Valdosta backfield, performed brilliantly in the first half when his team pushed over three TDs.

The winners scored on their first offensive thrust with Roberts moving over from the one to spark a 68-yard move. He included runs of 10 and 15 yards during the parade. John Roberts, while John Hughes took care of the rest.

Valdosta's opening drive was spectacular from every point, quarterback Willie Webb deceived the Ram defense on every call.

Roberts gave his mates a 13-0 lead in the second quarter when he legged Ward Lawton's punt back 55 yards. It was the best individual play of the night.

Five plays later, Lawton couldn't reach a fourth-down snap and Valdosta got the ball at the Ram one-foot line. Webb pushed it over.

The fourth touchdown — a strictly luxury score — came quickly in the fourth period.

Valdosta's backfield, perhaps the fastest four on any one team in Georgia, wasted no time in showing its superiority tonight in its determination to grab the state A crown for the third year in a row when it plays LaGrange next Friday.

After the Rams had received and failed miserably at the Wildcat line, Lawton kicked to Hughes at the Valdosta 31. Two O'Neal runs moved to the 44. Then four successive first downs moved it to the Ram one, and Roberts rammed home. He also added the point.

College Park came off the canvas admirably and lasted the first round without further abuse.

Midway in the second, Lawton faced a fourth-down situation on his 19. His punt was hauled in at the Cat 45 by Roberts, who exploded across the field and down the right sideline. The rapid Cat safety man was untouched.

Auburn Beats Birmingham Again, 93-66

BIRMINGHAM, Dec. 4 (AP)—

improving Auburn quintet won its second straight game from Birmingham-Southern tonight, 93-66.

The tall Southeastern Conference squad looked much smoother than it did in winning from the Birmingham team last Tuesday by a score of 81-50.

Center Bob Miller sank 20 points to lead the Tiger scoring performance. Denison Hinton was high for the losers with 17.

Miller put the SEC team ahead early in the game with his hook shots.

South Carolina Nips Georgia, 61-59, As Late Bulldog Rally Falls Short

Satterfield, Potts, McManus Each Get 13 as Athens Five Drops Opener

ATHENS, Dec. 4—The University of Georgia's talented but jittery basketball youngsters watched a last-minute rally fall just short as South Carolina spoiled the Bulldogs' opener in Woodruff Hall, 61-59, tonight.

Trailing by 37-29 at the half, Georgia rallied strongly in the final quarter, two foul shots by Bubber Potts getting them a tie and then a one-point lead. But the Gamecocks came back to open up a five-point margin with a minute to play, 61-56.

A field goal and free throw by Georgia's Allen Farris narrowed the gap to 61-60 but, with seconds remaining, the Bulldogs missed four straight shots from close in against its Atlantic Coast Conference rival, any one of which would at least have tied the game.

Gamecock sophomore center Lee Collins at 6-6 and 210 pounds pretty well took care of the backboards. In addition he garnered 16 points to share the lead in that department with forward Joe Smith. Jack Hoffert rang in 15.

Georgia attempted 28,

Potts got the game's and the season's first two points, but the Gamecocks tied it up by quarter's end and pulled away in the second period on Collins' rebound ability.

Satterfield got hot in the third period and hit four baskets and a free throw as the Bulldogs pulled up to 48-51 and set the stage for the frantic last period.

Georgia faces Clemson College at the Tiger gym tonight.

Poets Wallop Commercial, Meet Grady in Macon Next

SAVANNAH, Dec. 4—Lanier High's unbeaten Poets became the first Lanier team to ever win 11 consecutive games as they outclassed Savannah Commercial, 26-0, here tonight to capture the South Georgia Class AA championship and earn the right to battle Grady of Atlanta next Friday in Macon for the state crown.

Approximately 2,300 fans saw the Poets score in every period on Grayson Stadium's rain-soaked field and limit the local Cobras to 67 yards rushing.

Billy Kitchens, perhaps the state's most dangerous running back, scored both first-half touchdowns on runs of 38 and eight yards and set up the third-quarter tally with a 21-yard burst to Commercial's six. He accounted for 99 of Lanier's 189 yards rushing, averaging 9.9 yards per try.

But the mud-sweated figures of guards Allan Key and William Sanders loomed up in heroic proportions as they consistently knifed through to check Cobra ball-carriers Nylan Owens and Everett Todd. Key and Sanders are big reasons why Commercial gained only 16 yards rushing in the first half. They are also two of the reasons why Lanier has limited 11 opponents to only 32 points.

Commercial never penetrated Lanier's 20-yard stripe and only once, late in the third quarter, did it reach the Poets' 30.

Poet speedsters Theron Sapp and Johnny Stallings scored third and fourth-quarter TDs on short sprints of one and two yards.

Air-wise, quarterback Sam Vickers completed three of five passes for 65 yards, and his 18-yard heave to end Bobby Almand set up Kitchens' second-period score.

Kitchens' 38-yard first-quarter TD run came with only 1:40 remaining, and he went eight yards for the second when the new quarter was only 2:49 old. Billy Johnson converted and Lanier went out with a 13-0 margin.

Stallings scored 4:25 after the second half started, following Kitchens' 21-yard end dash to Commercial's 12.

Sapp personally accounted for the final TD as he intercepted a Todd pass at the Cobra 26, carried it back to the 10, and scored on three rushes.

was, as always, a hollow one.

There was small doubt about who should don the hero's toga on either side. It was rampaging Lofton, the bull of Boulevard, for Grady. It was his fullback counterpart, John Knox, for Decatur. Lofton whacked 19 times into the Decatur middle and came up with 143 yards, 10 more than his team netted all told. Knox slashed the thick Grady middle for 73 yards on 14 carries.

Jeff Davis, Grady's Mr. Outside, managed to inch only 20 yards on 11 carries so savage was Decatur's up-front play led by center Ed Crawford, tackle Dan Logue and guard Walter Fountain. Billy Bob Redford, Decatur's big running threat, was snuffed out with 17 yards on five attempts because of the brutish line play of Stovall, Field, Mike Trotter, David Meyer and their buddies in defensive circle.

Grady's "twin quarterbacks"—Charlie Maynard and Earl Fuller—sparkled in spots, misfired in others.

Fuller hauled freight for 55 yards on five punt returns, but it was on the other end that he really glittered. The 165-pounder took the ball four times for an average of 43 yards per boot. Lofton minimized the importance of Fuller's heavy-footedness by thudding seven boos for a 35.7 average despite one puny seven-yarder.

The 85-yard Decatur scoring drive was a blistering 12-play affair which was climaxed when Jere Landers spun around end for the final eight yards but missed the extra point, one he could ill afford to miss as it turned out. Knox made runs of 10 and 11 yards. Redford one for 12 along the way. But Maynard, Fuller and Red Howell all did some of the hauling job.

The victory gave Grady the right to engage Lanier's South Georgia champs for the state AA crown in Macon's Porter Stadium next Friday night at 8 o'clock.

BIG-TIME FOOTBALL RETURNS IN EMORY DUCK BOWL TODAY

Unable to resist completely the football madness that sweeps American colleges in the fall, a group of athletically inclined Emory students, representing rival fraternities, got together in 1931 and signed a 99-year pact to keep the football spirit alive at the school. The result is the annual Duck Bowl, the 1933 edition of which will be staged this afternoon.

As always, the participants in today's fray will be Sigma Nu and Pi Kappa Alpha fraternities. With former Marist and University of Georgia varsity athlete Earl Gunn in the forefront, the Pi Kappa Alpha team will be attempting to break a five-year losing streak.

Sigma Nu will depend heavily on such bowl-wise veterans as Gordon Azar, Dean Horseman and Pete Sotus to continue its mastery of Pi Kappa Alpha.

Kickoff will be at 2:30 at the Emory football field.

UMP HEADS HOME—Cal Hubbard, American League umpire and a former baseball star, bids farewell to the Minor League Convention. Hubbard was among the hundreds of baseball visitors leaving Atlanta yesterday.

MITES MEET TODAY

Pee-Wee Stars Collide In 25th Fritz Orr Bowl

Miami's Orange Bowl is 21 years old; New Orleans' Sugar Bowl is 19 and Dallas' Cotton Bowl is 17. Atlanta, however, boasts a football bowl all its own which celebrates its 25th anniversary this afternoon.

That would be the Fritz Orr Bowl, an annual affair for 12-year-olds and under at Fritz Orr's elementary school since 1929.

Not to be outdone by their more celebrated elders, these 100-pounders have their own all-American players and their own national organizations, a division of the Pop Warner Foundation.

This afternoon the midgets settle who's champion of Fritz Orr School. They're already champions of the City Recreation Department's Midget league. So now the team has been split into Blue and White teams to show their stuff before probably 1,500 alumni.

Actually there will be three games. First one pits 35-pounders, second game features 75-pounders and the feature has the 100-pound city champion Giants.

The Blue team likely will be favored, if only because all-American candidate Julian Baxter is on its side. Baxter is a triple-threat tailback in Coach Buddy Fowlkes' single wing. He has run wild this season on the 20 per cent smaller fields that the midgets use.

Whichever team wins, though, the school can't lose. All gate receipts go to expanding the athletic program, which includes such specialties as wrestling, gymnastics, rifle, swimming, horsemanship and basketball.

South Georgia College went through the air for two first-half touchdowns, then went to work defensively to whip Lees-McRae, 20-7, in the fourth annual Golden Isles Bowl.

A 61-yard drive in the first quarter was capped when quarterback Ashton Cassidy's 15-yard pass to Kenton Cook gave the Tigers their first touchdown. Pete Cox converted.

Lees-McRae came back in the second quarter when halfback Claude Riddle went 76 yards to the SGC seven. Halfback Fred Holland punched over and Jackie Harris passed to Erie Perry for the extra point, making it 7-7.

South Georgia marched 49 yards just before the half and quarterback Dean Madray passed the last 17 to Don Gardiner for the touchdown. Kelton Cook went 53 yards to the Lees-McRae three and Cassidy sneaked over for the final tally in the fourth quarter.

LAGRANGE, Dec. 4—The bang-bang backfield from LaGrange shattered LaFayette High, 32-0, tonight to win the North Georgia Class A championship and the right to meet Valdosta for the state crown.

Quarterback Freeman Mills passed to halfback Danny Sherrer for three touchdowns and fullback Tommy Murphy blasted over for two more as the Grangers.

Kentucky Five Opens With Owls

Wildcats Return
After 'Exile'

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 4 (AP)—Kentucky makes another bid for basketball prominence Saturday night against Temple, a club remembered hereabouts for twice knocking some of the luster from the Wildcats' bright records in the past.

Kentucky has served its exile, imposed a year ago by the Southeastern Conference and the National Collegiate Athletic Association for over-emphasis in its basketball program.

The belief that Kentucky is loaded once more is evidenced in preseason ratings which put the Wildcats near the top nationally.

Adolph Rupp, Kentucky's veteran coach, hasn't said much for the record about current prospects. He says "we'll put on a good show." Eleven of the 12 SEC coaches agree. . . . They picked Kentucky to win its 15th league championship.

Temple already has played two games and comes to town with last year's starters intact. The visitors appear a stronger-than-usual opening opponent, though lacking in height.

Kentucky, on the other hand, has the benefit of an added year's practice and experience in getting ready for this season.

All-America candidates Cliff Hagan and Frank Ramsey at center and guard, lead Kentucky's attack. Both are seniors.

Senior Lou Tsioropoulos at forward and junior Bill Evans, guard-forward, are holdover regulars. Six-foot-seven Phil Grawemeyer, a sophomore forward, or Gayle Rose, a junior guard, will be Kentucky's other starter.

Besides the regulars, there is a bench full of sophomores who could become the best drilled second-year men in the country. As freshmen they worked last year with the varsity, but lack game experience.

Kentucky's apparent weakness is the absence of a tall man to serve as goal tender. This is the type of player that caused Kentucky's chief difficulties two seasons ago.

Long the dominating power in Dixie, Kentucky frequently extended its power nationally and in 22 seasons collected 471 victories against 82 losses under Rupp.

The enthusiasm marking its return this season is backed by a record sale of season tickets in its vast Memorial coliseum.

DUQUESNE NO. 3

Defending King Indiana Tagged Tops, Kentucky 2d by Coaches

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—Indiana's tall and talented Hoosiers, who won the national college basketball championship last year with a band of precocious sophomores, today were picked to defend successfully their title this season by the United Press board of coaches.

Coach Branch McCracken's team, missing only one player through graduation, attracted first place votes from 29 of the 35 leading coaches who will rate the teams for the United Press during the 1953-54 season.

Kentucky, returning to action this season after a one-year suspension, was chosen No. 2 in the nation and Duquesne third. The former champion Wildcats and Duquesne each drew two first-place votes,

Tech Cagers Open Campaign Tonight

Tackle Battle-Tested
Gamecocks at Columbia

By LARRY FOX

Georgia Tech opens its season against South Carolina in Columbia tonight as part of the Southeastern Conference's first big Saturday of basketball competition.

Ten games involving SEC quintets are on tap tonight, none of them between members of the family, however.

The Jackets of Coach Whack Hyder will be going up against an already battle-tested quintet in South Carolina. The Gamecocks have already played Maryland, losing 53-49, and beat Georgia by 61-59 in the Bulldogs' opener last night.

Biggest loss off Tech's none-too-successful five last year is center Pete Silas but Hyder figures this year's team should be an improvement. The '52-'53 record was 5-17.

Probable Tech starters are Bill Cohen and Lake Kelly at forwards, Dick Lenholt at center and Howard Snead and Johnny Harwell at guards. Harwell is the team captain.

In some other top games scheduled tonight, Georgia goes to Clemson, which was routed by Maryland Thursday night; Temple, annually one of the better eastern teams, goes to Kentucky as the Wildcats resume cage competition after a year's layoff; Texas Tech, an 85-71 winner over Tennessee, Thursday, visits Vanderbilt; and Tennessee goes to Duke to meet the powerful Blue Devils who already hold a 110-76 decision over Furman.

Louisiana State, last year's conference champion, entertains the Pensacola Navy five.

In other games involving SEC teams, Alabama is host to Jacksonville (Ala.) State, Florida is at home to Stetson, Auburn visits Howard and Louisiana College drops in on Tulane, last year's conference runner-up.

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WAYCROSS, Dec. 4.—Righthalf Hollis Register tore loose for two third-period TDs tonight to fire unbeaten Irwin County High of Ocilla to a 35-6 trouncing of Glennville for the South Georgia Class B championship.

It was the 12th consecutive victory for Coach Herb Strickland's Indians, who gained the right to battle Model High of Shannon for the state B diadem.

Register romped home from 43 and 34 yards out in the third stanza to ice the 1-B champs' 7-0 lead over the sputtering Bulldogs from region 2-B, who could not tally until Larry DeLoache bombed Roger Wilkerson with a 33-yarder in the fourth period.

Quarterback Danny Paulk sneaked in from one yard out in the second quarter for the Indians' initial score, then Charley Barnes ran for the extra point.

Moving behind a paralyzing blocking key noted by guard Charles Scott and tackle Gus Walters, the shifty Register shook away for his pair in the third decisive period.

The relentless Indians weren't through, however, adding two more six-pointers in the final quarter on Barnes' three-yard plunge and fullback Roger Dill's one-yard buck.

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 4 (AP)—Crawford Mims, All-America guard for the University of Mississippi, got a pat on the back from state legislators yesterday for his outstanding gridiron play.

The State House of Representatives adopted a resolution commending Mims and expressing "gratitude and appreciation for the honor he has brought Mississippi."

Mims was named guard on the Associated Press All-America team announced today.

Lion Victory Sunday Would Clinch Title

Need Only To Whip Bears
To Assure Tie at Least

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—This could be the pennant-clinching weekend for the Detroit Lions who go after their fifth straight victory in the National Football League on Sunday.

A Detroit victory over the awakened Chicago Bears and San Francisco and Los Angeles defeats would mathematically end the pursuit race in the NFL's Western Division. Cleveland's all-conquering Browns wrapped up the Eastern title for the fourth straight year last Sunday.

Even if the two California teams won their remaining two games each, it won't do them any good if Detroit's defending champions beat the Bears in the Motor City Sunday and the Giants in New York the week after. If the Lions whip the Bears Sunday they will assure themselves of at least a tie for the division flag.

Detroit is 8-2 followed by San Francisco, 7-3, and Los Angeles, 6-3-1. The 49ers entertain Green Bay (2-7-1) this Sunday and play host to Baltimore (3-7) on Dec. 13. The Rams take on the same two teams at home, meeting Baltimore tomorrow night and Green Bay the Saturday after.

There is a slim hope for the Californians in that both the Bears, one-time terrors of the league, and the Giants, have been playing top-notch ball of late.

In their last four games the Bears tied Green Bay, beat Washington, lost to Detroit 20-16, and defeated Los Angeles 24-21. The Giants ended Philadelphia's six-game win streak Sunday with a 37-28 victory.

The rest of the Sunday schedule shows New York (3-7) at Cleveland (10-0), Philadelphia (6-3-1) at Washington (5-4-1) and Pittsburgh (4-6) at the Chicago Cardinals (0-9-1).

Although the Browns have only an academic interest left in the race, they'll be out to keep a couple of their stars in front in some of the individual contests.

Quarterback Otto Graham is leading the passers with an average of 10.23 yards per pass, and Lou (The Toe) Groza is pacing the scorers with 85 points. Groza is getting a battle from San Francisco's Gordon Soltau who rang up 20 points against Baltimore and now has 81.

Joe Perry, the 49ers' battering ram, is first in rushing with 372 yards, 130 more than Dan Towler of the Rams who won the title last year with 894 yards.

September Primary Bill Passed by State House

By BERT SPENCER

The Georgia House of Representatives yesterday completed final legislative action on a measure setting the Democratic primary in September, but its State of Republic committee failed to act on the most important of three other election reform bills.

Only Gov. Herman Talmadge's signature is needed now to write the September primary into state law.

OTHER BILLS

The committee, headed by Rep. J. Roy McCracken of Jefferson, approved two of three election bills pushed through the Senate early this year by Sen. Everett Millican of Atlanta, but even the fate of those seemed uncertain.

Although Millican quoted Gov. Talmadge as having approved the two, observers believed administration House leaders were uncertain about whether the bills still have gubernatorial approval.

Gov. Talmadge was out of the city and his executive secretary, James Bentley, said he did not know the governor's sentiments on the proposed measures.

BALLOT COUNT

One of the bills passed by the committee would clearly prohibit the counting of ballots before a poll closes. Millican said existing statutes were conflicting on the question.

The second would allow newspapers to print sample ballots before an election.

The committee took no action on a bill introduced by Millican this session which would change from six months to 45 days the period between the closing of registration books and an election.

Appearing before the committee to urge approval of his bills, Millican said the governor told him he did not approve of the proposed registration change.

EXCHANGES

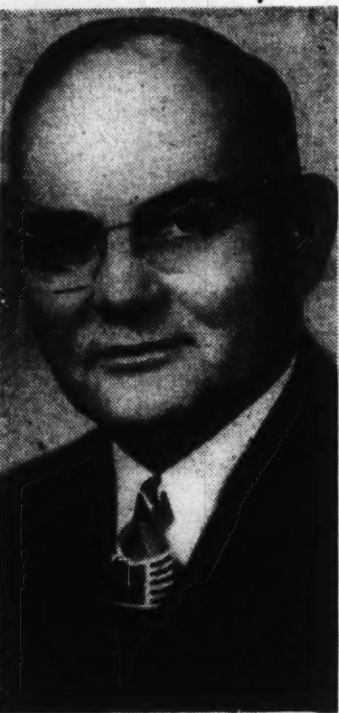

"So you can just keep that bill," the senator said.

"You mean you don't want us to do anything with it," McCracken asked.

"Oh, I'd like for it to pass, but I'm not that ambitious," Millican replied.

Millican said a later registration deadline was needed because "some people don't think of registering to vote until a campaign gets hot." He said the national average on the time lapse was about 30 days.

The House, which earlier had passed a September primary bill in which a typographical error set the vote the first Wednesday in the month, approved a Senate amendment which set the election for the second Wednesday, the intended date of the original bill.

ATLANTAN HONORED
C. B. McManus

McManus Adviser for Light Jubilee

C. B. McManus, president of The Southern Company, has been named to serve on the sponsoring committee of Light's Diamond Jubilee, a 35-member group of the nation's top power, light, utility and manufacturing executives.

The committee will serve as advisers in next year's celebration of the 75th anniversary of Thomas A. Edison's invention of the first practical incandescent lamp. The celebration is being planned by the nation's entire electrical industry in nearly 600 towns and cities throughout America.

The Atlanta will serve with such nationally prominent men as former President Herbert Hoover, Charles Edison, son of the famed inventor; Henry Ford II, grandson of the automobile magnate; and Harvey S. Firestone Jr., son of Thomas Edison's long time friend.

Stay Calm On Schools, Arnall Says

CARTERSVILLE, Dec. 4 (AP)—Former Gov. Ellis Arnall maintained today that if the U.S. Supreme Court rules against racial segregation in schools in any case now before it Georgia will then have ample time to act.

In a speech for delivery before the Georgia Exchange Club he reiterated that no case attacking segregation in Georgia is now before the court and that he does not believe the court will upset any school system providing for equal facilities for whites and Negroes.

He repeated earlier statements that the Georgia Constitution, which he, as governor, helped revise, affirmatively places the state in this group.

City Transit, Traffic Bills Await Okay

By ALBERT RILEY

Legislative proposals designed to help solve Atlanta's transit, parking and traffic court problems are awaiting final approval next week in the closing days of the 1953 session of the Georgia General Assembly.

A constitutional amendment that would permit the city to take over the Atlanta transit system has been approved by the Senate and is awaiting House action. Requiring voter approval next year, this permissive legislation would enable the city or a public authority to acquire and operate the transit system in the event the system is in danger of collapse.

Simpson and Curtin, Philadelphia transportation engineers, recommended this legislation in the Senate Transit Study Committee report. The report pointed out that the Atlanta Transit Co. is underfinanced and is not allowed enough depreciation expense to replace equipment as it wears out.

Proposals for creation of an Atlanta Transportation Committee and an aldermanic committee on traffic, transit and parking, are ready to be introduced as amendments to an omnibus bill either in the House or Senate. Such committees were recommended by another legislative group, the Atlanta Parking Commission.

Two proposals are pending to permit Atlanta's municipal court to try violations of state traffic laws. One is a Senate-approved constitutional amendment and the other is a bill introduced by Rep. Hoke Smith.

Some sort of permissive "stand-by" legislation may be introduced by the Fulton delegation to permit the City of Atlanta to increase its tax millage on real estate by two mills.

Special to The Constitution
ATHENS, Oct. 4—Acting editors of the University of Georgia's Red and Black published a farewell issue of the student newspaper today, and then resigned—leaving the publication virtually without a staff.

Priscilla Arnold, of Marietta, and Gene Britton, of Moultrie, acting editor and acting managing editor, respectively, are latest student journalists to resign in a current controversy over the newspaper's stand against segregation in education.

Editor Walter Lundy Jr. and Managing Editor Bill Shipp had resigned Wednesday, protesting what they termed "a board of control that would threaten editorial rights." Miss Arnold and Britton had been appointed to replace them.

Only an assistant news editor and a sports editor and women's editor remained on the official staff tonight.

The controversy which led to the resignations began with Red and Black editorials assailing segregation. An editorial exchange between the student newspaper and the Augusta Courier, edited by Regent Roy Harris, followed.

When university officials attempted to set up a board that would control editorial opinion expressed in the student publication, partially supported by university funds, the two top editors quit.

Lead editorial of the Red and Black yesterday attacked the control board.

Ask Mental Division Probe

A resolution requesting a congressional investigation of the psychiatric division of the Augusta Veterans Administration Hospital will be introduced in the Georgia House of Representatives next week.

Rep. Ben. Smith of Cobb County said he plans to introduce such a resolution Monday requesting the Georgia delegation in Congress to have the hospital investigated.

Smith said he drafted the resolution after reading sharp criticism of the hospital and its treatment of patients in a book written by an Atlanta veteran who was a patient at the Augusta institution.

Cotton Mixed; Trading Slow

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 15 to 25 cents a bale higher except near December which was off 5 cents today. Trading was slow and price movements narrow.

Dealers found little incentives for fresh commitments at the moment with the conditions in the cotton textile and export markets sluggish. At the same time, producers have been freer sellers of spot cotton.

Scattered liquidation and hedg-

ing in futures met an indifferent

trade demand, but the market

perked up a bit towards the close as spot houses and local covering gained some momentum.

Prospects for some additional export business were revealed in advice that the foreign operations administration has issued a cotton procurement authorization of $4,318,000 to Korea. Purchases for December shipment will be made soon, it was reported. There were five December transferable notices issued at New York and they circulated for some time in the trade. The December open interest had been whittled down to 68,600 bales as of the close Thursday.

2-6 Pct. Gain in Sales Routs Merchant Blues

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Retail merchants here and elsewhere in the country are once more feeling that all isn't lost after all. Christmas shoppers, since Thanksgiving, have poured a steady stream of dollars into store tills.

A Dun & Bradstreet report yesterday bears out so far what Atlanta area retailers predicted when surveyed by The Constitution more than a month ago.

Their report estimated the total volume of retail trade in the South to 2 to 6 per cent higher than a year ago, which is comparable to the increase anticipated here.

By region, the increase in the South was second only to that on the Pacific Coast. New England had gained little, while business in the East was down by as much as 3 per cent. All other regions registered increases of 1 per cent or more.

The Dun & Bradstreet report noted that some retailers expressed dissatisfaction with consumer response the day after Thanksgiving, which is widely considered the tipoff for the entire Christmas season.

Atlanta retailers, however, were generally very pleased about their business last week end. Many said they had never before had such good business, and if that's a tipoff on the entire holiday season, Atlanta cash registers will be jingling over time.

Truckers May Kill Ohio Pact

Cancellation of a reciprocal agreement with Ohio on truck taxes was threatened here yesterday by representatives of 10 Southern states.

A resolution was unanimously adopted by the 10-state reciprocity committee serving notice that agreements pertaining to all trucks should be revoked March 1, 1954.

The committee considered immediate revocation, but under the urging of T. J. Outlaw, spokesman for the North Carolina Motor Carriers Assoc., put it off until March to give the Ohio legislature an opportunity to act. The legislature meets in January.

REQUIRES PERMIT

A bill passed at the last session of the Ohio legislature authorized a motor vehicle highway use tax. This levy went into effect Oct. 1, 1953. The act requires every truck with three or more axles to obtain a highway use permit at a cost of $2.

The tax ranges from one-half cent per mile for trucks with three or more axles to 2½ cents per mile for tandem trucks with four or more axles.

Revenue derived from the tax, estimated at 18 million dollars annually, is to be used for new highway construction.

The act was amended by the legislature to include a provision for a reciprocity board, consisting of the attorney general, chairman of the Ohio Public Utilities Commission and the tax commissioner. This board after a meeting Oct. 9, interpreted the amendment's intent as to leave up to the board's discretion whether Ohio would enter any reciprocity agreements.

UNIFIED ACTION

Walter R. McDonald, chairman of both the Georgia Reciprocal Commission and the 10-state group, informed Ohio officials Nov. 20 that Georgia had cancelled a reciprocal agreement covering the license registration tax.

McDonald issued the call for today's meeting after correspondence with several of the members had indicated "unified action" was needed, he said.

John W. Peck, Ohio tax commissioner and member of the Ohio reciprocity board, appeared before the 10-state group. McDonald said the Ohio official was "adamant Ohio was not going to reciprocate."

After hearing testimony from representatives of the truckers as to the cost of the new tax the committee went into executive session where they drew up their resolution ending reciprocity.

Bill To Tighten Stray Cattle Curb Passes in House

A bill aimed at strengthening restrictions against livestock wandering on highways passed the Georgia House yesterday by a vote of 112 to 2.

The bill was up for reconsideration after it failed by six votes Thursday to receive the necessary House majority.

Rep. William L. Lanier of Candler County, sponsor of the bill, explained that the proposed measure would allow counties not having "no-fence laws" to come under the bill if two successive grand juries recommend such action.

Lanier emphasized another provision of the bill which would take "cowboy duties" from sheriffs by allowing farmers themselves to impound cattle wandering on their property.

SOLONS' SWEETHEART—Neva Jane Langley, Georgia's "Miss America of 1953," was named the "Sweetheart of the Georgia House and Senate" in resolutions adopted by both houses of the Legislature yesterday. The beauty from Wesleyan Conservatory at Macon also was presented a bouquet of red roses and a kiss on the cheek by Rep. Peter Zack Geer, bachelor lawmaker from Miller County. Geer authored the House resolution that called Miss Langley "the state's foremost purveyor of good will."

Walton Flier Died in Crash Of Stratojet

Maj. Hayward Walton McEver, 30, of Monroe, was among the crew of four killed Thursday night 25 miles east of Tucson, Ariz., when their B-47 Stratojet crashed in the Santa Catalina Mountains.

Witnesses said that the huge plane, which was based at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, ripped apart and fell in flames after its engines caught fire. Rescue and investigation teams said the bodies were recovered over a five-mile area. Col. W. J. Wigglesworth, commanding officer of Davis-Monthan, said the bomber had been on a 5½-hour mission.

Also killed were Lt. Col. Douglas Bratcher, commander of the 360th Bombing Squadron, 303d Bombing Wing, Tucson, native of Dallas, Tex.; Capt. James G. Williams, Tucson, formerly of Kennedy, Tex., and A. C. William I. Child, Tucson.

An Air Force career pilot, Maj. McEver was a native of Hall County. He entered the U.S. Army Air Corps in 1942 while a student at the University of Georgia, and had distinguished himself as a B-24 bomber pilot in the Southwest Pacific during World War II.

The holder of permanent rank, the Walton Countian had served in recent years as an instructor at various Air Force installations in Louisiana, Texas and Arizona. He was a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity and of the First Baptist Church of Monroe.

Surviving are his wife, the former Louise Rossheim, a native of Teaneck, N.J.; three daughters, Misses Judith, Cathy and Susan McEver; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester McEver, all of Monroe, and a brother, W. Horace McEver, Atlanta.

Funeral plans will be announced.

CITY HALL

Freeway To Close at 14th Street

By HERMAN HANCOCK
Thousands of northbound motorists who use the expressway daily will have to leave the thoroughfare at 14th Street for a three-day period beginning Monday, Co. Garland Steele, city liaison engineer on expressways, said yesterday.

Contractors will begin final mop-up operations to connect the roadway beneath the underpass at Peachtree road and Brookwood Station and the northwest leg to Piedmont road Monday, Steele said.

Officials of MacDonald Construction Co., contractors, have informed Steele about three days will be required for the work and traffic will be turned into Peachtree road at Brookwood Station beginning Thursday morning, under the present schedule.

Finale for Quartet

Four members of the Atlanta Board of Education are scheduled to attend their last meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday. Board members J. H. Landers, Charles C. Rife, J. C. (Jake) Shelton and D. M. Therrell will leave the board beginning next January. Rife and Landers were defeated for re-election and Shelton and Therrell did not offer for new terms.

Okays 17 Petitions

The Municipal Board of Adjustment yesterday approved 17 petitions, deferred action on another and permitted withdrawal of two others. Held for further study was a proposal affecting property at Mt. Lab Report Requested in Fatal Fall

CONSTITUTION STATE NEWS SERVICE
EATONTON, Dec. 4—A coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Grady Brooks, wife of an Eatonton restaurant operator, is awaiting a report from Dr. Herman Jones, director of the State Crime Laboratory. Putnam County Sheriff John R. Walton said today.

Walton said the woman died Thursday of a cerebral hemorrhage "and we don't believe there was any foul play."

The woman's husband told Sheriff Walton that his wife fell when alighting from her car at the home and that the fall apparently resulted in her death. The sheriff said Brooks and his wife left the restaurant together to drive home. He said the husband told him he carried his wife into the house after her fall and then summoned a doctor who pronounced her dead.

The Crime Laboratory report may be received tomorrow or early next week.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the J. Austin Dillon Co., Atlanta.

Surviving besides her husband are a daughter, Miss Dolores Brooks, Eatonton; parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Allen, Atlanta; two brothers, F. C. Allen, Atlanta, and H. M. Allen, U.S.N., and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Moore, Sparta.

THE OUTGOING PRESIDENT GOT A HAT

C. F. Hutcherson Models It For Sen. Russell, J. Hugh Rogers

Subjecting of GIs to Foreign Courts Is Scored by Russell

Sen. Richard B. Russell last night scored the recent U.S. Senate action which subjects American soldiers to the jurisdiction of foreign courts.

Speaking to some 300 persons at the third annual banquet of the Old War Horses Lawyers Club at the Atlanta Athletic Club, the Georgia senator said Senate ratification of the State Department treaty was "disturbing and somewhat shocking."

"It is a far departure from the American system," Russell said, "especially when contemptible Communists within this country can hide themselves behind the Fifth Amendment."

"The young men in question pretty well know our own laws but not those of other countries, and they can very easily get themselves in trouble through ignorance. While we must co-operate with other free nations, we must not in the process lose any of the fundamental freedoms that go with American citizenship."

The Old War Horses Lawyers Club is a social organization of some 700 Atlantans in the legal profession.

J. Hugh Rogers, former judge of DeKalb Civil Court, was elected new president. He succeeds Carl F. Hutcherson. Other new officers are Hugh Howell Sr., first vice president; Young H. Fraser, second vice president; Samuel A. Massell, secretary-treasurer, and Louis A. Burton, publicity chairman.

Plugging for Speech School Measure, Fulton's Rep. Lokey Loses His Voice

Fulton County's Rep. Hamilton Lokey lost his voice in all things—a speech school bill.

Suffering from laryngitis, Lokey went to the microphone on the House floor to plug for a bill that would permit local school systems to pay the Junior League speech school for training children with defective speech.

His hoarse voice broke, squeaked and Lokey was silent. He backed away, took a deep breath and continued, but cut his speech short. The House passed the bill and Lokey sat down, whispering thanks to his colleagues for supporting the measure.

OBITUARIES

William M. Wells

Crowell Community Wins Chattahoochee Area Title

COLUMBUS, Dec. 4—The Crowell community of Taylor County has been named the 1953 champion community of the Chattahoochee Valley.

The announcement was made by P. M. Strickland, chairman of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce's Farmers Club.

Mrs. Clifford Adams, president of the community, was presented a $600 award.

Located in the Georgia peach belt, Crowell is a small community situated in the northeast section of Taylor County. Its chief project this year was renovation of its abandoned school house into an attractive community center, and the organization of an active teen-age club.

Banks, Case Dropped

A court case brought by Banks County in an effort to collect $30,404.74 against the solicitor general, former sheriff and former court clerk was dismissed this week after county attorneys admitted in court that they lack enough evidence to prosecute.

The case listed Sol. Hope Star, former Sheriff Farris Brewer and former Court Clerk G. H. Rylee as defendants. The county claimed that the three men owed the county the money as a result of overpayment in fines and forfeitures they collected while in office.

The defendants countered, however, that they are still owed money from fees and forfeitures collected during their terms of office.

Judge Henry H. West of Athens presided.

3rd Hitch at 16

Donald B. Polk left Macon yesterday for California and his third hitch in the Navy, an old salt at the tender age of 16.

This time he believes his enlistment will stick, however, because he'll be 17 on Dec. 10, and will join with the consent of his mother, Mrs. Albert Griffin.

Donald first signed up at the age of 13 by fibbing about his age. A husky six-footer, he was able to fool the Navy until his school records were checked. He was honorably discharged.

On his 15th birthday, he slipped away to Jacksonville, Fla., and joined up again. But after a few months his record again caught up with him.

Mrs. Griffin admits she is relieved now. "That boy couldn't be happy anywhere but in the Navy," she said.

Colquitt City Court Bill Set for Talmadge Okay

The Senate yesterday passed a House measure that would abolish the city court of Colquitt in Miller County, on approval of a county-wide election.

The bill was introduced in the House by Rep. Peter Zack Geer whose cousin, former Rep. Bush Mims, is judge of the city court. Decision to introduce the bill came after local groups asked that the court be abolished. The bill goes to Gov. Talmadge for approval.

Other bills given final legislative approval yesterday included salary raises for the Rockdale County commissioner to $2,800; the Brunswick circuit court reporter to $3,600, and the Savannah City Court associate judge to $6,000 a year.

A slight change in the time for Twigg's Superior Court to convene was passed, and a Mitchell County bill would establish a water, light and gas commission in Camilla.

A far-reaching local bill requiring all officials elected from Bibb County to run for a specific seat, position or office also was sent to the governor for his approval.

No local bills were introduced in either house.

Bills passed in the House:

H.B. 818—CHEROKEE: To amend act of 1949, to change salary of judge of circuit court to $2,000 a year.

H.B. 925—FLOYD: To permit county clerk to purchase photostatic equipment for certified copies.

H.B. 1012—GRADY: To set salary of county auditor for solicitor and clerk at $250 a month.

H.B. 1014—CLARKE: To allow city of Athens to provide off street parking.

H.B. 1015—RICHMOND: To set date for filing of bills of attachment in the Augusta city court on the first day of each term.

H.B. 1017—WALKER: To allow city of Roswell to employ a tax assessor.

H.B. 1018—APPLING: To take liquor offenses from under the Bailey city court jurisdiction.

H.B. 1024—BIBB: To provide a pension plan for employees of the Macon Water Board.

H.B. 1027—THOMAS: To establish a water and light revenue fund for the city of Thomasville into which 20 per cent of utility collections must be placed.

H.B. 1028—STEWART: To permit consolidation of all schools in the county.

H.B. 1029—GRADY: To establish a board of water commissioners in Cairo.

H.B. 1030—RICHMOND: To prohibit future employment of Augusta over 35 years of age from coming under the city employee pension plan.

H.B. 1032—COWETA: To provide for a referendum on city manager government in Newnan.

Open-Range? Fulton Has It, Nevertheless

In the midst of a statewide hue and cry over open-range cattle legislation, the state's most urban county—Fulton—has quietly continued to be an open-range county, Rep. Hoke Smith disclosed yesterday.

It's not against state law for cattle to wander up and down Peachtree Street because of an old law passed in 1882, Rep. Smith declared. His disclosure was made after the House passed a bill which would permit grand juries to force residents of their respective counties to keep cattle fenced.

The 1882 open-range law applying to Fulton never has been repealed, Smith said.

House Votes Slum Bill; Smith Wary

The Georgia House of Representatives yesterday passed a proposed constitutional amendment that would give cities and towns authority to carry out slum-clearance projects, but a Fulton County representative said the measure might be in danger of being declared invalid under the U.S. Constitution.

The Assembly previously had passed slum-clearance legislation, but the State Supreme Court declared the acts unconstitutional.

PROGRAM HALTED

The clearing and redevelopment of blighted areas in Atlanta and other urban areas in the state was halted by the court decision.

House leaders had hoped the constitutional amendment would enable the Legislature to pass slum-clearance laws that would stand up.

Rep. Hoke Smith of Fulton said, however, he still was doubtful as to whether any slum-clearance legislation would be constitutional under the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution.

"I haven't looked into this phase too thoroughly," Smith commented. "But it may be that any condemnation of property other than that to be used for public purposes would be ruled as not affording equal protection to affected property owners."

PROVISIONS

The proposed amendment would allow cities, towns and housing authorities to seek enabling legislation authorizing the acquisition and clearing of predominantly slum areas.

The authorities could prepare the condemned areas for re-use and dispose of them, either for private or public development.

The right of taxation and eminent domain and the authority to use public funds for slum-clearance would be included in the amendment which, if it passes the Senate, would be voted on in the next general election.

Bill Permits Tuition
For Palsy Students

A bill which would permit Fulton, DeKalb, Cobb and surrounding school systems to pay to send afflicted children to the Cerebral Palsy School was passed in the House yesterday. Rep. Hamilton Lokey introduced the proposal.

Bells, Cries Bring Solons To Roll Calls

The "time to vote" bells were ringing in Capitol corridors yesterday as the House of Representatives fought to maintain a voting quorum.

Speaker Fred Hand repeatedly had to cry, "Mr. Doorkeeper, go into the halls and corridors" in order to bring enough legislators into the chamber for the required 103 votes on bills.

Presumably many of the legislators had gone home for a long weekend, but larger roll-call votes, House leaders said, indicated many of the legislators were busy in other parts of the Capitol working on legislation.

On one constitutional amendment, where a vote of 137 was required, Speaker Pro Tem George Smith drafted 10 representatives from a committee hearing.

The members returned to the hearing after casting their ballots in the House.

In the morning session, 109 was the largest number of votes cast by show of hands.

On roll-call votes the largest number of Georgia's 205 representatives balloting was 144.

Many representatives were balking back what they considered controversial bills because the slightest opposition might have defeated them.

Reinhardt And Baldwin Accredited

Reinhardt College at Waleska and Abraham Baldwin College at Tifton, two Georgia junior colleges, were accepted for membership and accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools yesterday in Memphis, Tenn.

Reinhardt College now has an endowment of $210,000, officials reported. The college plant is valued at $500,000.

Committee report of the Southern Association praised the qualifications of the Reinhardt faculty, the outstanding records of the graduates and the buildings, especially the library and the chapel.

Four other junior colleges and two senior colleges were accredited. The junior colleges are Lees McRae at Banner Elk, N.C.; Paducah at Paducah, Ky.; Wesleyan Methodist at Central, S.C.; and Northwest Mississippi at Senatobia, Miss. The senior colleges are Texas Lutheran College at Seguin, Texas, and Richmond (Va.) Professional Institute.

Teen Type Scarves To Carry Greetings

By DOTTY LUNDY

A blue and white silk scarf with star motif will relay Christmas greetings from 30 Y-Teen clubs to members in Beirut, Lebanon. The scarf, in Y colors, will initiate the custom of "Scarves Around the World" this Yule season. Each chapter in the U.S. will send a scarf to a Y-Teen council overseas.

The idea grew out of the traditional greeting of Y members in 66 countries over the world, that of fluttering their scarves as a symbol of good will. Pam Alt-wies, Sylvan Hills Y-Teen president, is chairman of the committee.

Teen agers can get in shape for the rigors of Christmas shopping by entering the swimming meet at the YWCA pool from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 12. Sponsored by the health education department, events will include the 25 and 50 yard free style; 25, 50 yard backstroke; 25, 50 yard breast stroke; 100 yard free style; 3 dives, running front, back and front jack; and three optional dives. Points will be awarded to the school or group each girl represents. Entries must be in by Wednesday, Dec. 9.

CANDY PULLING

OK Club, a service group at Grady, is vending candy pulling these days to buy a plaque for the school in honor of J. K. Kelly, a former teacher. The club was formed in service to Mr. Kelly after his death recently.

Barbara Brown was elected president of the OK's; Lettie Jensen, vice president; Nini Maltby, secretary, and Carolyn Carnell, treasurer.

Avondale High Players took first place in the one-act play contest at Chamblee this week. Their rendition of "The Gold Dress" will compete in the state contest in Macon.

Avondale PTA will stage a carnival Friday, Dec. 11 from 2 to 8 p.m. Each home room will be in charge of a project, with the seniors keeping the country store.

Mrs. Albert S. Hatcher, president of the Atlanta group, will serve as official hostess and welcome the guests who will gather from all over the Southeast.

Mrs. Harold Cooledge, president of the General Alumnae, will preside over a business meeting and will have as her guests at the speakers' table members of the Shorter Board of Trustees, Dr. George A. Christenberry, Shorter president, Mrs. Christenberry, faculty members, Dr. and Mrs. Monroe F. Swilley and Dr. and Mrs. Roy O. McClain.

Slow Roll Banishes Bulges

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Let's take a look at the trio of hip muscles. The gluteus maximus is a massive muscle that forms the back of the hip. The gluteus medius and minimus are short, thick muscles flanking the thighline, rounding the contour.

Rolling is the smoothest way to banish the thighline bulge. But the angle of roll must be shifted to bring pressure to bear on the bulge. This roll gets at that annoying pincushion of fat:

Position: Lying on back on floor, knees bent. Arms are out at sides, palms on floor.

Action: Roll slowly and heavily along one thighline, back across upper hip to other thighline. As you roll, make sure you bring bulge in contact with floor—something has to give, and there is no give to the floor. Continue for 12 heavy, slow rolls . . . later increase to 25 counts.

GOOD PLAN

It is always a good plan to follow rolling with an action motion, stirring up circulation. Swing into action:

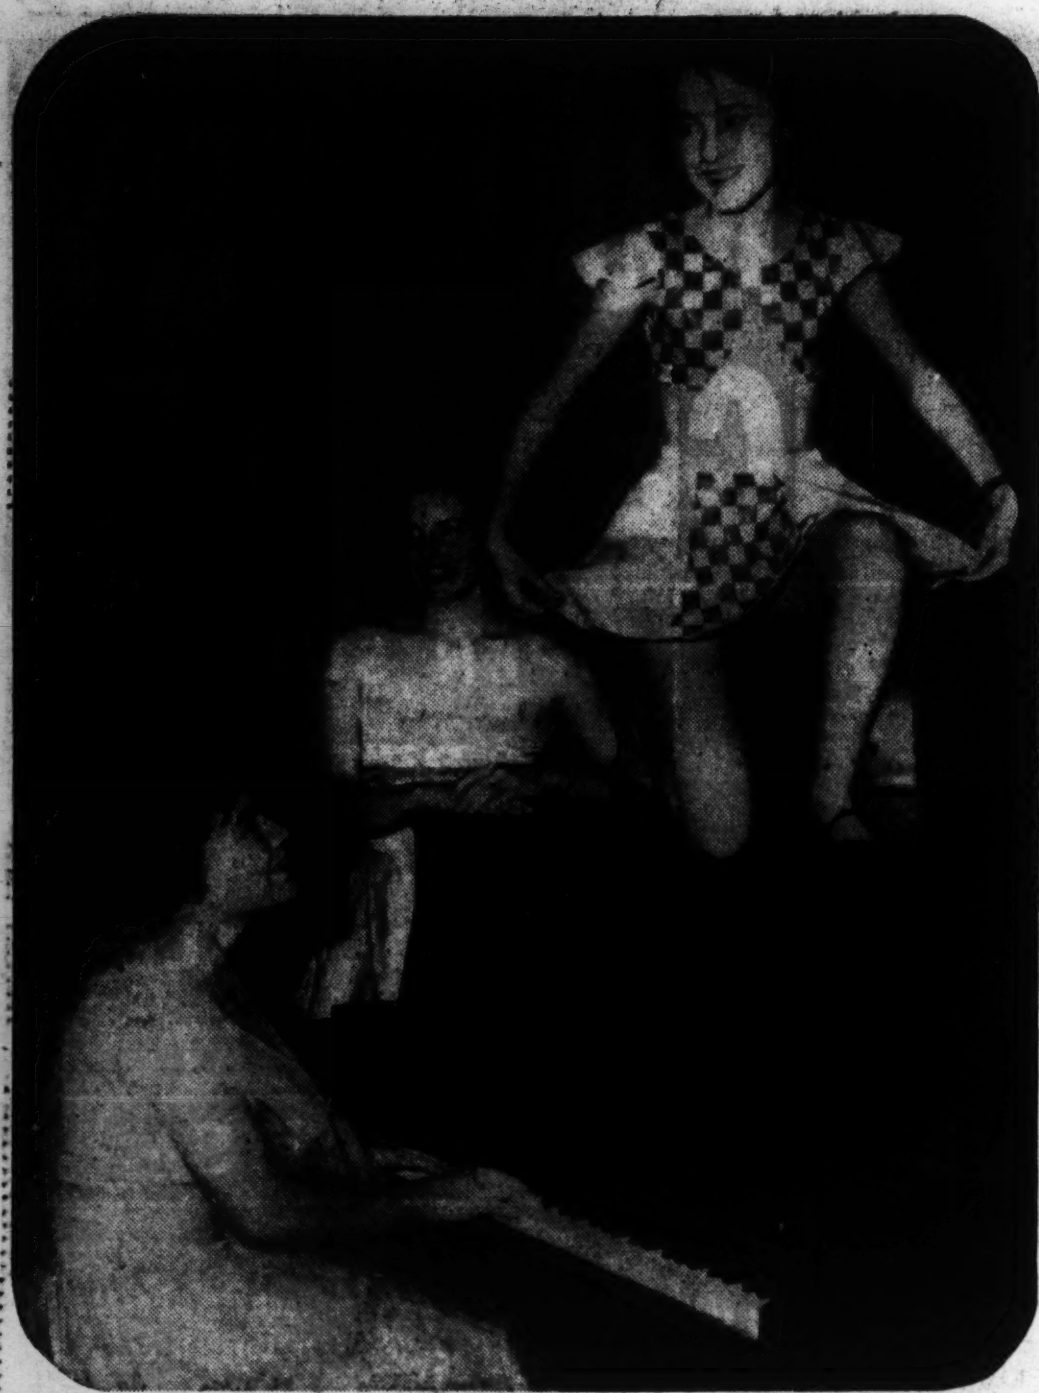

Position: Lying on right side, legs straight down, left leg on top of right.

Action: Swing freely and easily with the top leg, away up in front, then swing vigorously rearward, continuing 12 counts. Change sides and swing with that leg. The action is largely through the back hip muscle.

To bring the action through the muscle flanking the thighline, circle with the top leg, keeping knee straight. Circle six times in one direction, then six times in the opposite direction, making wide, rhythmic circles. Reverse sides and circle with other leg.

SMOOTHS HIPS

Back to rolling: A straight roll effectively smooths off hips that square off in window box shape. From the position of lying on back, with legs straight down, roll over to one thigh line, then back across the hips to the other thighline. Again make this a heavy, slow roll, bringing pressure to bear on the right spot.

Tax Move Pleases Mothers

By JEAN ROONEY

Working mothers were jubilant over the proposed state income-tax deduction for baby-sitter expenses passed by the Georgia Senate yesterday.

The bill, now back in the House for consideration of an amendment, came as a pleasant surprise to most of the city's working women and business women's organizations.

They had been fighting for a federal income-tax deduction, but for the most part hadn't considered the state possibility.

The measure would permit working mothers making $4,000 a year or under to deduct the cost of providing care for children while on the job.

"Only fair," Mrs. Ruth Key stated. She heads the National Secretaries Association here.

Mrs. Key pointed out that the deduction was comparable to office expenses for businessmen.

Young mother members of the Junior Atlanta Woman's Club will be thankful, Mrs. George Tomberlin, the club's legislative chairman, reported.

"It's like getting an unexpected Christmas bonus," she said.

Atlanta's Business and Professional Women's Club was "happy," but, Mrs. Elsie Freeman, club president, said expenses for caring for elderly dependents in the home should be included.

"Not much extra red tape in filing a return," Fielding Dillard, state-income tax division director, reported about the proposed deduction. He said it would be included under the heading of business expenses.

Couples might use the deduction in joint or separate returns, he explained. The law also would apply to widowers or divorced men with custody of small children, Fielding said.

Hubby's Singing Charms Mrs. Downey

By YOLANDE GWIN

One wife enjoys hearing her husband sing in the shower. She is Mrs. Morton Downey, wife of the famed crooner, on her first visit to Atlanta.

"I never get tired of his singing," said his pretty wife, "whether he is home or on the air. How could I? I loved his singing long before I married him."

The singer and his wife were two-day house guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Woodruff at their home on Tuxedo road. Downey came down to be the star singer at the dinner given by the Coca-Cola Co. and the Atlanta Crackers at the Biltmore Hotel honoring visitors and delegates to the annual Minor League Baseball Convention.

"Atlanta is charming. I love it and want to come back," said Mrs. Downey.

Small and slim with dark brown hair which she wears in a long bob, Mrs. Downey was Mrs. Alex Hohonohe before she married the singer three years ago.

"We travel so much that I don't have much time to spend in my apartment in New York, but when I'm there I like to try my hand at interior decorating. I think most all women who love their homes like to express their ideas in the furnishings and decoration."

"I keep my weight about the same—just a little over 100—by tennis and swimming when I have time. We travel a great deal and I don't have time for much outside activity because when Morton sings I'm always there listening."

"Because of our traveling I usually plan my wardrobe so that I carry the minimum amount of clothes. I prefer suits and tailored dresses and gray is my favorite color."

"I'll say this about her," chimed in Mrs. Woodruff, "she is packed with personality and is lots of fun to have in the house as a guest."

Home, School Meet

The Home and School Association of St. Thomas More School will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the social hall of the church.

AOPi Plans Founders Day

The combined afternoon and evening groups of the Atlanta Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi national sorority will celebrate their 56th Founders Day with a banquet at Mammy's Shanty Tuesday, Dec. 8, at 7 p.m.

Letters from the two living founders and messages in memory of the two founders will be given by Mrs. E. Fay Pearce and Mrs. James Phillips. The program will follow a birthday theme with Mrs. C. A. Zierring as mistress of ceremonies. Her assistants will be Mrs. R. L. Carter, Miss Doty Lundy and Mrs. Rodney Harris.

Wool skirts made by the afternoon group and used clothing will be brought to fill a large Christmas box to be sent to the Frontier Nursing Service for the children in the Kentucky mountains. Frontier Nursing Service is the national philanthropic project for AOPi.

Annie Lou Hardy Invitations Issued For Annual Party

Attractive invitations bearing the silhouette of a coachman driving a carriage occupied by a party couple have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Younts for an old-fashioned Christmas party on Saturday, Dec. 12.

Ever since they came to Atlanta for residence, Mr. and Mrs. Younts have entertained annually at a similar party, with their hospitable Habersham Rd. home, decked out in Christmas greens, myriads of red roses and lighted candles, setting the keynote for Yuletide gaiety. The calling hours are from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Younts plan to leave Dec. 23 to spend Christmas with the latter's sister, Mrs. Henry Campbell, in Franklin, Va.

Another annual party for which invitations have been issued is that at which Mr. and Mrs. Scott Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hodgson will be cohosts on Saturday, Dec. 12. The affair will be held between 5 and 7 o'clock at the Allen home at 1805 Ponce de Leon Ave.

For a number of years the Allens and the Hodgsons, who are the closest of friends, have entertained together at Christmas.

WINTER VACATIONISTS—Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Paradies of 3718 Peachtree Rd., relax at the Sea Island on Miami Beach while enjoying a winter vacation at the Florida resort.

A visitor coming for the event is Mrs. Hodgson's sister, Mrs. Frank Wise of Jacksonville.

TWO HANDSOME ATLANTA HOMES will be open to the public for a Christmas tour today and tomorrow under the sponsorship of the Peachtree Garden Club. They are the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roby Robinson at 1140 W. Paces Ferry Rd. and that of Mrs. Andrew Calhoun at 1144 W. Paces Ferry.

The hours today are from 11 to 6 o'clock. Tomorrow the houses will be open from 1 to 6 o'clock.

MRS. DUNCAN OWENS of Warrenton, Va., left Wednesday for a two-week visit to her son-in-law, Samuel H. Bowman III, and her grandchildren, Muffy, Sam and Duncan Bowman, at Wayzata, Minn. Mrs. Owens spent the past three weeks here with her mother, Mrs. L. O. Bricker, at the Biltmore.

AFTER A 10-DAY VISIT to Mrs. Goodloe Yancey at her home on Valley Rd., Mrs. Guy Hartman will go today to spend a few days with Mrs. Frank Pharr on Argonne Dr. before returning to her home in Lakeland, Fla.

THOSE FORMER ATLANTANS, Mr. and Mrs. Houston Johnston, have arrived from their home, Blythehood, near Clarksville, to be the guests of their daughter, Mrs. M. Hines Roberts, and Dr. Roberts at their W. Wesley Rd. residence.

On Wednesday at 3 o'clock Mrs. Roberts will be hostess to members of the Women's Committee of the Atlanta Symphony Guild at her home.

MRS. EDWARD S. RIGGINS of San Francisco has arrived for a visit to her sister, Mrs. Vol Blackall, Mr. Blackall and Mrs. Valerie Blackall Foster at their home on The Prado. Mrs. Riggins is en route home from Europe, where she spent the past three months visiting relatives in Scotland and touring the continent.

At the cocktail hour this afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Blackall and Mrs. Foster will entertain in compliment to their guest. Friends will call between 5:30 and 7:30 o'clock to meet Mrs. Riggins.

BRIDE-ELECT EDNA PATE was honor guest when a group of her friends entertained at a shower at the home of her cousin, Miss Gloria Hutchins, on 11th St.

DAILY GUIDE—There is an explosive, unpredictable aspect due to culminate this week, but due to its erratic character, it might well have triggered off earlier. If not, then expect an exciting weekend. Everyone should take great care at this time, not to speed, take violent action or take chances. Avoid combustible objects, and that includes arguments.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, SAGIT-

TARIUS! The new moon tomorrow ushers in an important two weeks for you, so expect to be active. This could be an erratic, emotional period in which you could be involved with loved ones or friends, or have your dreams upset. Try to co-operate and work through others. During the coming weeks keep behind the scenes more than usual; don't take aggressive action until about February.

CAMP FIRE AWARDS—Three Atlanta leaders of Camp Fire Girls, Inc., received awards from the National Awards Committee of the organization recently. Mrs. Julian Fraser, right, is presented a Keda Report Honor by her husband. Looking on are Mrs. A. M. Gregg, who also received the Keda award, and Mrs. George S. Mitchell, who received the Wakan Service Award. The Keda award was given for 1952 reports showing evidence of good leadership and a creative program.

Use of Nickel By Pupils on Buses Okayed

The Georgia Public Service Commission yesterday gave the Atlanta Transit Company permission to discontinue the sale of school tokens on trolleys and at the same time it voted to permit school children to use a nickel for a fare.

In other action the commission approved penny charges for trolley transfers, a move requested by the Columbus Transit Co. and a one-third reduction of gas rates in Augusta.

The body ruled that Atlanta children could purchase school tokens at the Atlanta Transit Co. office if they so desired.

A reduction of more than 30 percent in the gas rate schedule used in Augusta by the Augusta Gas Co. was approved.

Ollie Reeves A Rhyme a Day

"Vary the routine of living as you grow older. Husbands and wives too often establish a pattern of living that is monotonous to both."

Advice column quote.

Is there a man who hasn't said . . . "tonight I'll stay at home instead" . . . of going out . . . I'll read a book . . . or settle down awhile and look . . . at television, or just think . . . while I absorb a tasty drink."

But he is greeted by his wife . . . who says, "My dear, my own, my life . . . you'd better stir your stumps about . . . we have an invitation out . . . go shave yourself and take a bath . . ." (I'll tell you, that "no serpent hath . . . a sharper sting," than this command . . . which kills the pleasure he had planned.)

Is there a wife who never thought . . . "I'd better hide this hat I bought . . . I know that man of mine will say . . . you've thrown much better hats away . . . it ought to be against the law . . . to sell that mess of cloth and straw."

I really think that it is quite . . . remarkable they do not fight . . . more often as they both grow old . . . and he gets tired of being told . . . and she gets tired of hearing that . . . old joke about a woman's hat.
